SCOTTISH GOVT LOSES COURT BATTLE FOR REFERENDUM

Britain's Supreme Court has ruled that Scotland's government can't hold an independence referendum without UK's consent

U.K. PARLIAMENT REFUSES TO GIVE CONSENT

The Scottish National Party (SNP) wanted a second referendum on October 19, 2023 but the UK Parliament refused to grant a formal consent. Supreme Court president Lord Reed said the laws that created the devolved Scottish Parliament in 1999 meant it does not have power over areas of the constitution including the union between Scotland and England | P14

RISHI SUNAK WELCOMES 'DEFINITIVE RULING'

- Welcoming the verdict, UK Prime Minister Rishi Sunak termed it a "clear and definitive ruling from the Supreme Court"
- SNP leader Nicola Sturgeon said her party respects the court's decision but added that the next general election in 2024 will be a 'de facto referendum' where people will express their will

Price of KMF milk and curd goes up by ₹2

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

STARTING Thursday, pay more for milk and curd as the Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF) Board on Wednesday decided to increase the price of the two dairy products by Rs 2. With this, the price of Nandini toned milk will go up to Rs 39 per litre and curd to Rs 47 per litre.

KMF had placed the demand before the government to increase the prices by Rs 3 sometime ago. But Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had to intervene as the move attracted intense criticism. He later held a meeting with KMF officials and asked them not to go for a steep hike and to ensure that it does not cause losses to farmers or become a burden to consumers. KMF had then sought one day to decide.

KMF stated that they are only the second state in the country to pay the highest compensation to farmers.

For every Re 1 collected from consumers, 79 paise is paid to farmers. On an average, Rs 28 crore is handed out to farmers every day.

In the last two years, the cost of maintaining cattle has gone up. "Keeping the welfare of farmers in mind, it has become necessary to increase the price of milk. The Karnataka milk price is lower compared to other states and also cheaper than other brands," it said.

The last time the price of milk and curd was increased was in February 2020.

Product	Existing rate (a litre/kg)	Revised rate (a litre/kg)
Toned milk	₹ 37	₹39
Homogenised toned milk	₹38	₹40
Special Milk	₹43	₹45
Homogenised standard milk	₹44	₹46
Santrupthi milk	₹50	₹52
Double toned milk	₹36	₹38
Curd per kilo	₹45	₹47

JAPAN'S players did not know what to do apart from run in all directions. Some of them were going right, some were going straight, others left. All of them, though, had their arms outstretched. You didn't need to know the scoreline. Japan had upset World Cup royalty, Germany. The four-time champions failed to kill the match and the Asian powerhouse won 2-1. Ilkay Gundogan had converted a first-half penalty and it was smooth sailing until Japan, who had the reached the last 16 in 2018, went for the jugular in the second half. They rung in the changes and drove at the heart of Germany's creaking midfield till it crumbled like a house of cards. The defeat leaves Germany needing a result against Spain on Sunday. Or, it could be an early exit.

Appointment of new EC Arun Goel under SC lens

Constitution bench says it wants to check if there was any 'hanky-panky' in the process; govt directed to submit files today

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

TAKING note of the alacrity with which the government granted VRS to bureaucrat Arun Goel and appointed him as election commissioner, a five-judge Constitution bench of the Supreme Court on Wednesday ordered the Centre to submit all the original files related to the appointment.

The five-judge bench headed by Justice K M Joseph said it wants to know if there was any "hanky-panky" because Goel's appointment happened while it was hearing a plea seeking a collegium-like system for the Election Commission of India. The Centre should not have any problem submitting the relevant files if everything was done as per procedure, the bench observed. The court gave the Centre time till Thursday to produce the files.

The direction came after senior advocate Prashant Bhushan told the bench that Goel, a 1985 batch IAS officer of Punjab cadre and a secretary-level official, was given VRS on Friday and appointed as EC on Saturday to enable him to start working from Monday.

"The government appointed someone in a single day and no one knows what process was followed or what safeguards were taken," Bhushan said.

Arun Goel

Asking Attorney General R Venkataramani if the government has any hesitation in presenting the file, the bench observed that the appointment was inappropriate as the matter was being heard by the Constitution bench.

When the AG objected to Goel's appointment being dragged into a case where the court is considering a larger issue, Justice Joseph said, "We would like to know... because you are claiming that everything is going on smoothly. We don't think it's a matter where we should be withholding information. This is not matter related to appointment of military person."

The bench also observed that the Chief Election Commissioner should be a strong-willed person who will not hesitate to act even against the prime minister, if need be.

"Suppose there is some allegation against the prime minister and the CEC has to act. But the CEC is weak-kneed. He does not act. Is it not a complete breakdown of the system? The CEC is supposed to be insulated from political influence and should be independent," the bench remarked.

Venkataramani told the bench that there had to be a trigger point for the top court to interfere in such matters. The AG also told the bench that the appointments were on the basis on seniority and there was no separate appointment procedure for CEC.

'NEED A CEC WHO CAN ACT EVEN AGAINST THE PM'

The Constitution bench said the person appointed as the Chief Election Commissioner must be independent and should be willing to act even against the prime minister in the event of serious allegations

State running out of govt land for schools: Ashoka

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA seems to be running out of government land. Raising an alert, Revenue Minister R Ashoka warned that in the next 10-12 years, it might be difficult to find land to construct government schools, hospitals and other infrastructure. He had earlier raised this issue with elected representatives, but is writing to them again to identify government properties in their constituencies.

Ashoka is traveling across the state to take part in "Jilladhikari Nade Halli Kade", where he stays in a village and listens to woes of residents. During such outings, he learnt that there is a shortage of land for schools, colleges, anganwadis, graveyards, playgrounds, health centres and many such facilities. He had earlier written to all MLAs and MPs to identify government land for building essential infrastructure. "But none of them replied. I am going to write again," he told TNIE.

"The price of land is shooting up, and the government cannot buy properties at such high prices. This is the time to save land for the future. Either the land has been encroached by individuals or organisations or it is being used for different purposes. We seek the support of legislators as they know their constituencies better," he added.

M'luru blast accused epitomises threat to state from highly radicalised youth

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE November 19 blast in an autorickshaw in Mangaluru, in which key accused Mohammed Shariq (24) and autorickshaw driver Purushottam were injured, is an eye-opener on the emerging incidents of highly radicalised youth indulging in terrorist activities either alone or in fragmented and small networks to evade detection.

This was Shariq's third attempt at a terror-related activity since November 2020, in which he and an engineering student, Mazz Muneer Ahmed (21), were involved in the terror graffiti case in Mangaluru. Shariq was wanted in the Shivamogga blast and burning of the national flag case in September this year, in which Ahmed and another engineering graduate Syed Yasin (21), with alleged affiliation to the banned terrorist outfit Islamic State of Iraq & Syria (ISIS), were arrested.

Investigation had revealed that they were mentored by Shariq, who went underground after he was released on bail in the graffiti case. The fact that the pressure cooker with the improvised explosive device (IED) that Shariq was carrying went off before its time proves it was an amateur attempt at bomb-making with batteries, wires, nuts and bolts and explosive chemicals that are easily available in the market.

Shraddha's 2-yr-old SOS to police revealed Aaftab design

UJWAL JALALI @New Delhi

THE horrific case of murder and dismemberment of a woman in Delhi by her live-in partner took a new turn on Wednesday after the copy of a letter she wrote to the Maharashtra police exactly two years ago revealing his threats to "kill and cut her into pieces" surfaced.

"Aaftab Amin Poonawala has been abusing me and beating me up. Today he tried to kill me by suffocating me and he scared and blackmails me that he will kill me cut me up in pieces and throw me away," wrote Shraddha Walker in a hand-written letter dated November 23, 2020.

Shraddha was allegedly strangled on May 18 this year, her body chopped into multiple pieces and disposed of. Shraddha's letter is now a crucial piece of evidence to establish Aaftab was a repeat offender and had a history of domestic violence.

While the Palghar police acknowledged receipt of her letter, they claimed she had a subsequently written another letter withdrawing the complaint. "We went to their house twice. They told us that they have nothing against each other and had decided to withdraw the complaint as well. Therefore, after 26 days, we disposed of the complaint," a police official said.

Her letter revealed that Aaftab's parents were aware of their son beating her up. "His parents are aware that he beats me and that he tried to kill me. They also know about us living together and they visit on weekends," Shraddha's letter read.

Drug addict out of rehab kills four of his family in Delhi

UJWAL JALALI @New Delhi

A drug addict just out of rehab allegedly went on a killing spree, stabbing four members of his family in southwest Delhi's Palam area, the police said on Wednesday.

The mass murder took place late on Tuesday night. "A person made a PCR call around 10.30 pm claiming he was hearing sounds of quarrel in his neighbourhood after which the police immediately rushed to the location," Deputy Police Commissioner (Southwest) Manoj C said.

Accused Keshav (25) was caught by neighbours and the police while he was trying to bolt. He hacked his 75-year-old grandmother Diwano Devi, parents Dinesh and Darshan, and sister Urvashi with a sharp-edged weapon.

One of the family members, while speaking to this newspaper, said the accused spent more than 30 months at a rehabilitation centre and had recently come out of it. "He was a drug addict and had frequent fights with his family. He used to nag them for money," said Keshav's cousin Kuldeep Saini, who stayed just a floor below.

On Tuesday night, he heard a noisy quarrel and climbed the stairs to check. "I heard screams of my cousin Urvashi after which I rushed upstairs and started banging the door to know her welfare but none opened," Kuldeep said. Keshav responded from inside asking him to buzz off as it was his family matter. "There was complete silence for 15 mins but in the meantime I had called the police. When the police arrived, Keshav jumped from the second floor to escape but we caught him," Kuldeep said.

Minor raped, parents allege accused tried to convert her

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

AN alleged case of a rape of a minor girl and bid to convert her has come to light at a village in Nagamangala taluk of Mandya district. It is alleged that a 24-year-old man raped a 14-year-old girl and asked her to convert to Islam if she wants to marry him.

The girl's father, in a complaint filed with the Nagamangala police, alleged that the accused, Yonus Pasha, befriended his physically-challenged minor daughter studying in eighth grade. Pasha had given her a cellphone and reached it through one of his relatives, who used to travel with the girl in the school van, the complaint added.

The girl later started talking to the accused over phone and had also sent some sleazy videos of hers to him. He had later threatened the girl that he would put the videos on social media if she refuses to have sex with him, the complaint stated. "He had handed her some sleeping pills asking her to make other members of the family sleep so that he could come to the house. After she followed his instructions and let him into the house, he raped her. He also told her that if she wished to marry him, she had to convert," the complaint stated.

The accused has been to police custody, said Mandya SP Yathish N. He has been booked under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (Pocso), IPC Sections 376(3), 354 (D), 450, 506, Information technology Act and Section 5 of the Karnataka Protecction of Rights to Freedom of Religion Ordinance 2022.

43-year jail for raping minor

Mysuru: A POCSO court has sentenced a man to 43 years rigorous imprisonment and fined him Rs 50,000 for raping a 10-year-old girl. The incident took place on October 13. The court also directed the Legal Service Authority to pay Rs 7 lakh to the victim. P7

Soon, single Metro QR code for groups

Trial runs going on currently, expected to be launched by January 15

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

BUOYED by the success of the single journey Quick Response (QR) tickets launched on Namma Metro's app and WhatsApp, the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) will soon permit multiple commuters to travel using one ticket, said BMRCL officials. A maximum of six commuters will be allowed.

This is being done to ensure that those travelling as a group, particularly families, can scan just a single ticket on one mobile at the QR Reader installed at the Automatic Fare Collection gates.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Chief Public Relations Officer and Chief Engineer of Depots at BMRCL, B L Yashavanth Chavan, said, "Trial runs are presently on in this connection. We will continue the testing for a few more weeks. The multiple travel ticket could be launched by January 15." This move will save the time of all involved, he added.

The QR ticketing system launched on November 1 has had a terrific response in such a short time, he added. "On the day of the launch, we had nearly 1,800 commuters making use of a QR ticket. On November 20, the number of QR tickets purchased were 12, 787," he said.

A total of 1,35,564 QR tickets have been used for travel until now, Chavan said. "The general feedback is that public are quite happy with it. We have not received any complaints or encountered any major glitches so far," he added.

Meanwhile, Bengaluru Metro's ridership is soaring. Ridership figures from November 14 to November 19 have crossed 5.44 lakh daily marking a clear surge in commuters. "We are already improving on pre-Covid levels and it is only set to increase in future. On Saturday (November 19), we clocked 6,06,272 rides," the CPRO said.

Testing on Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield Line

The ongoing Testing and Commissioning on the Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield Line of Phase-2 have been covered between Whitefield and Garudacharpalya stations, said a senior Metro official. "Singalling tests are presently on. They will be followed by static tests and then the dynamic tests involving trains. The next run involving a train will be January 12," he said. ENS

State seeks 3 months to notify reservation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state government has filed an application before the Karnataka High Court seeking an extension of three months to notify the reservation of wards for the November 30 deadline fixed by a single judge to conduct elections to the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike.

Meanwhile, BJP MLA and Chief Whip M Sathish Reddy filed an appeal challenging the dismissal of the petition questioning the delimitation of wards by the single judge.

A division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Ashok S Kinagi on Wednesday admitted the appeal filed by Reddy and others, saying that the appellants have raised some arguable points, before issuing notice to the state government, BBMP and State Election Commission (SEC). However, the government's application is yet to come up for hearing.

An application was filed by the government after the lapse of one-and-a-half months out of two months granted by the single judge vide order dated September 30, 2022, to issue reservation notification before November 30, and a month due to complete the entire election process by December 31, 2022.

The government sought more time saying that it can issue fresh reservation notification only after receiving the report from the panel constituted to recommend proper political representation for backward classes, taking into consideration the issues raised by the single judge.

On the appeal, senior counsel Prof Ravivarma Kumar argued that the single judge did not consider the issue raised by the petitioners that the wards shall be divided within the assembly constituency and not spread over the constituencies as per Section 7 (b) of the BBMP Act.

Senior counsel K N Phanindra, representing SEC, submitted that a local BBMP officer issued an endorsement to the petitioners stating that the ward in question is spread over two constituencies, though he had no authority to issue the same. This was objected by Prof Kumar on the ground that the SEC has no locus to make submissions, as the BBMP has to respond.

BBMP TAKES UP RAPID ROAD WORK ON PILOT BASIS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengalluru

WITH city roads crying for attention, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is thinking of moving from white topping to rapid road work which largely cuts the time taken to lay concrete roads.

Palike Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath on Wednesday inspected a 500-metre stretch on Old Madras Road from 100 Ft Road Junction to Petrol Junction, where a pilot project of the new method has been carried out. Though it costs 20 per cent more than the traditional method for every kilometre, it takes far less time to lay, he said. "It uses a pre-cast method. The cost escalation is because of transportation of the precast from the plant to the site. If this works, we can consider it for other roads too," he added

This stretch was chosen for the pilot project as the work would ease traffic near NGEF, Baiyyappanahalli and Indiranagar 100 Feet Road.

Explaining the method, officials from UltraTech Cement, which is the innovation partner in the project, claimed that this latest technology is used in developing countries like the US. "In the precast tensioning concrete method, readymade slabs are laid and connected by steel cables on either side of the joints using cranes. A 150-metre stretch can be laid in just a day or two, and traffic can be allowed soon after," said PM Hiremath, regional manager, UltraTech Cement.

The precast concrete slabs are designed and developed taking into consideration the existing and future traffic conditions and the road lasts at least four decades, he said.

White topping of 1 km of road costs Rs 7.5 crore, while under the new method, it is higher at Rs a9.3 crore.

ADOPTED SON TOO ENTITLED TO COMPASSIONATE JOB: HC

Bengaluru: Observing that there can be no distinction between a natural-born son and an adopted son, the Karnataka High Court ruled that an adopted son is also entitled to a compassionate appointment. A division bench of Justice Suraj Govindaraj and Justice G Basavaraja passed the order while allowing an appeal filed by 32-year-old Girish, adopted son of late Vinayak K Muttatti, who was working as Class-IV employee (Dalayat) in the office of the Assistant Public Prosecutor, JMFC, Banahatti. Setting aside the order passed by the single judge, the division bench directed the appointing authority to consider the representation submitted by the appellant for compassionate appointment, as if the appellant is a natural-born son, without making a distinction between an adopted son and natural son. The single judge had rejected the adopted son's plea against rejection of his application for compassionate appointment by the director of prosecution, Department of Government Litigation. ENS

RR Nagar residents protest BBMP plan to build school at ground

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RESIDENTS of Rajarajeshwarinagar, including women, children and senior citizens, on Wednesday protested against the state government's decision to build a school at the 1.6-acre Kempegowda playground.

Carrying posters and raising slogans, the protestors gathered in large numbers at the ground, demanding that it be maintained as it is as the ground is the only avenue for children and youth to pursue their interest in sports.

"RR Nagar is a residential area, spread over 155 acres. There are 1.45 lakh residents in the biodiverse-rich locality. There are plenty of schools here and the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's plan to build one on this playground is not a good idea," said a resident.

Residents appealed to the authorities to spare this ground for sport activities and build a modern school with all amenities at a civic amenity site. "There are more than 20 CA sites to choose from in the locality. It is the duty of the government to provide playgrounds in all residential areas for people's physical and mental health," said a women protester.

BBMP Chief Engineer (RR Nagar Zone) Vijay Kumar pacified the protestors and sought time till Tuesday to set up a meeting with the BBMP zonal commissioner to get a clarity on the issue. "We have asked the Bengaluru Development Authority officials to show us the plan and till then, we will maintain the status quo," said the chief engineer.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

24TH November : I have a feeling that many Geminians, Librans and Aquarians will be changing their minds not once, or twice, but an infinite number of times. But that same process of endless change in plans and proposals will affect all of us, so if decisions have to be overturned, today's the day.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Your stars are now approaching a more creative formation than has been experienced for about four months, possibly twelve. You'll be ready to make the most of gifts and talents that you've completely forgotten about. It is also likely that other people will now be prepared to come to your rescue.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Your current planetary activity will probably put you on the spot at work, or even create a little bother over plans which you thought had been signed and sealed. You may have no choice but to complete what has been started - and fulfil all the promises you've made.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Mercury, the planet responsible for your thoughts and plans, appears to be hiding its more logical qualities behind a curious refusal to behave. That could be one reason why partners may now be reluctant to reach agreement or meet your standards and requirements.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
For about the next forty-eight hours your financial prospects will be reaching a monthly peak. This doesn't mean that everything will be easy, but that this is nevertheless an auspicious moment to settle matters such as domestic purchases or property deals.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
This promises to be a memorable phase for all intensely personal matters. You will probably do yourself a power of good by realising that abandoning certain commitments doesn't mean that you're reckless or irresponsible. Instead, it indicates that you've got a better idea of your own needs.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Recent surprise developments in home and family arrangements have exposed only the tip of a very deep iceberg. During the last few weeks you have probably imagined that all was going to continue as before, but your hope now must be that it will be better.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The only way to make sense of life at the moment is to realise what astrologers have always known - that what people say is not necessarily the same as what they do. In fact, the two are often completely different. That could account for someone's extravagant claims or offers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
A fantastic relationship between Venus and Jupiter could put the final seal on a new friendship or romantic connection. What is needed now is a determination to succeed, to actually make things work. You may need to call on one of your practical friends for help in the meantime.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Once in a while challenging aspects act in your favour. In other words, difficult events are sent to help you. You may allow yourself to show your feelings, even if it means shedding a tear or two, especially if it's for happiness. Partners should respect your openness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
You are obliged to honour all past commitments or obligations at the moment, even if you only have a dim recollection of why they were made in the first place! Some sort of personal sacrifice may be necessary, but what you give up now will be repaid many times over in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You've got some very mature decisions to make very soon. Hopefully you will stand aside over the next couple of weeks and allow associates to play more of a dominant role. If you attempt to stand in their way for no good reason, you may come off worst.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
A very peculiar planetary set-up is upping the stakes in every professional and worldly ambition. This is no time to take refuge behind your traditional passivity. You must know exactly what you are doing, and what you are about, especially if you're expecting other people to believe in you.

CCB sleuths raided the houses of 86 rowdy elements across the city on Wednesday morning. The police said they had prepared a list of rowdies who were absconding, not appearing before courts for trials and jumping bail conditions. "25 of them were home and they were brought to the CCB office and were let off after warning not to involve in any criminal activity and not to threaten witnesses," an official said

QUALITY OF GOVT SANITARY PADS UNDER QUESTION

DONNA EVA @Bengaluru

FOLLOWING a study on the state of sanitary napkins distributed to the public, there is concern on how quality is maintained by the government. Government programmes, such as the Shuchi scheme to distribute pads to government school children, have their own set of specifications for producing sanitary pads.

"Currently, sanitary napkins come in a pack of 10, and are distributed in institutions. These are produced by the government, according to our specifications. We are also launching a pilot programme to have Self-Help Groups participate in production of napkins, especially in rural areas. This is in addition to menstrual cups being distributed in two districts for girls aged 16 to 18," Health Commissioner D Randeep said. A recent study, undertaken by Delhi-based NGO Toxics Link, found that major sanitary pad brands, used by a majority of the population, have a large presence of phthalates (used for durability of plastic) and volatile organic compounds (VOCs), which can have adverse effects on their wearers. The NGO took samples from six inorganic and four organic sanitary pad manufacturers. "The issue with sanitary napkins has been known for almost 15 years. They cause anything from rashes and itching to endocrinal issues and allergies due to perfumes used in the napkins. I also believe they can contribute to cervical cancer after 30 to 40 years of usage," Dr Meenakshi Bharath, gynaecologist, told The New Indian Express. The issue of regulations was highlighted in the report, where researchers had stated that standards needed to be set for use of chemicals such as phthalates and VOCs in sanitary products, as current standards are insufficient. "People who choose to use menstrual products available in the market deserve to have access to safe products, and have the right to know what ingredients they are being exposed to. There should be regulation and schemes to promote substitution or reduction in the use of harmful chemicals like phthalates and VOCs," the report stated. Dr Bharath said that currently, there is a push towards using menstrual pads and cloth napkins in the country, specifically in rural areas and as part of government schemes. This seems to be true as Randeep said there might be plans to include cloth napkins in schools. "We can definitely have a trial period for cloth napkins. However, this will be based on market inputs and on how comfortable the children feel while using the napkins," he said.

Accountant diverts Rs 35L cash from firm, absconds

ENS @Bengaluru

A 32-year-old accountant of a private firm is on the run after diverting the firm's money into his savings bank account. The accused has misappropriated around Rs 35 lakh. The accused was maintaining the firm's complete bank transactions. He has also stolen the company's mobile phone which was registered in the bank to send the OTPs and SMSes of each bank transaction. The firm is into distributing soft drinks to multiple outlets in the city. A case of criminal breach of trust by a clerk has been registered against the accused. The Kodigehalli police has registered the case.

The accountant GR Shantha Kumar is a resident of Kodigehalli. Masood Ali, 62, the businessman residing in Sahakaranagar 5th block has filed the complaint against the accountant. Ali owns a distribution center at Tata Nagar. Kumar was working as the accountant from September, last year. He had total access to the bank transactions of the firm. He is alleged to have transferred the firm's funds to his account on November 15. "The accountant has even deleted the CCTV camera footage of the office before fleeing. We are tracking him based on his mobile phone number," said the police.

PSI SCAM

Court rejects bail to ADGP Amrit Paul

A city court on Wednesday rejected the bail petition filed by suspended ADGP Amrit Paul, an accused in the PSI recruitment scam. Paul had moved the bail petition for the third time. Earlier, the ACMM and the sessions court had rejected his bail plea. Strongly objecting granting of bail to him, the prosecution argued that the petitioner, who was the custodian of keys to access OMR sheets, had not offered any explanation on how his subordinate officials came in possession of the keys. "The offence committed by him has an adverse impact on the fabric of society. He is a top-ranked official in the state. If released on bail, there is a threat to the prose-cution material and witnesses," the prosecution argued. ENS

THREE HELD FOR PLEDGING FAKE GOLD, TAKING LOANS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Vijayanagar police have arrested three persons who were allegedly cheating banks by pledging duplicate gold jewels and borrowing loans. The accused have been identified as Arun Raju Kanade (30), and Satyananda alias Satya and Dattatreya Bakale alias Yash, both aged 28.

Th police said Satyananda and another accused, Jayalakshmi, had gone to a nationalised bank on September 23 and said they need Rs 7.15 lakh loan and gave 235.6 g of gold jewels. However, the appraiser found out that the jewels had less than 9 per cent of gold.

The bank manager grew suspicious and enquired Satyananda, who said it belonged to Arun and left the bank. After checking the database of the bank, the manager found out that the accused had pledged duplicate gold in other branches of the bank and hence filed a police complaint.

Sourced from West Bengal

"Satyananda was arrested first. Based on his information, two others were arrested. It was revealed that Arun and Bakale sourced duplicate gold jewels with hallmarks on them from West Bengal and pledged them through those who had accounts in nationalised banks so that even if the bank staff found out that it was fake gold, they will not get caught. They used to convince innocent bank account holders that they would repay the EMI and lured them with a commission on the loan amount," the police said.

"The investiggation so far has established that they have pledged around 15 kg duplicate gold in various banks in Bengaluru, Udupi, Gadag, Koppal, Hubbaali in Karnataka and also in Surat in Gujarat and have borrowed loans to the tune of several crores of rupees. We have recovered 1,475.640 g of duplicate gold from them and are further investigating," the police added.

Robber shot in leg during bid to escape from police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A habitual criminal has been shot in his right leg by the Nelamangala sub division police after he tried to escape by attacking a policeman with a cement block in the wee hours of Wednesday. The police were taking him for spot mazhar and also to recover a gold chain from a place where the accused had kept. The police initially warned him to surrender by opening two rounds in the air. When he tried to attack the other policemen, the inspector in defense opened fire at the accused and he is undergoing treatment.

The accused has been identified as Yogananda alias 'Night Shift' Yoga. He is wanted in over 15 cases, including murder, petrol bunk robberies, highway robberies, dacoity and othe cases. He has cases in Bengaluru, Bengaluru rural and Tumakuru district police jurisdictions.

The Nelamangala Town police had arrested him from Hebbal in Mysuru in a robbery case and were taking him to the spot for conducting the procedure. The police had recovered a 50 g gold chain from him. The accused, who attempted to escape, attacked a police constable identified as Hanumantha Hipparagi with a cement block for which the inspector had to fire at the accused's right leg.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in Chitradurga on Wednesday said that the State Government will take a call on the fate of the Murugha Mutt soon. He said the law department was going through the report on the mutt submitted by the Chitradurga DC. "Based on their suggestions, the government will soon take a decision on the administrative affairs of the mutt," he said

Blast case to be handed to NIA soon: Araga

Says Central agency in touch with state police since day of blast; Eight doctors involved in treating Shariq

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mangaluru

KARNATAKA Home minister Araga Jnanendra has said that the recent Mangaluru blast case will soon be handed to the National Investigation Agency (NIA) for a comprehensive probe. He was addressing the media after holding a meeting with top police officers, including DG and IGP Praveen Sood, here on Wednesday.

Araga said that his government has taken last Saturday's blast very seriously and are committed to root out the fanatic forces. "The case will be handed over to the central team (NIA) in a day or two. NIA has been in touch with the state police since the day of the blast," the minister added.

Meanwhile, elaborating on the health condition of Mohammed Shariq, the prime suspect in the blast case, Araga said eight expert doctors are treating him. The minister hoped that Shariq will soon recover which is vital for the probe.

The police are yet to record his statement as he is still recovering from the burns he suffered in the cooker blast. Araga said that once the police record his statement, the investigation will further pick up pace.

As part of the investigation, Araga said several police teams have been dispatched to various places like Coimbatore, Madurai, Kanniyakumari, and Nagercoil (all in Tamil Nadu), and Kochi in Kerala where the accused had travelled. "He (Shariq) has travelled a lot... but has not used a mobile phone and communicated through some other mode of communication. Also, he faked his identity which made the police difficult to track him after he was out on bail in the graffiti case," he added. Further, the minister said that Shariq is an expert in making explosives by sourcing locally available raw material. "If the explosive had not gone off accidentally, then it would have made some serious damage," the minister said.

"We are finding out the persons behind him and including those funding him... which force is making him indulge in such activities frequently. We will ensure that he is convicted and are gathering strong evidence against him," he said.

DG and IGP Praveen Sood said like any other terror activity, the intention behind this blast too was to drive a wedge between two communities and destabilise the country. Mangaluru City Police Commissioner N Shashi Kumar said police teams have been dispatched to eight different places and so far four persons have been picked up for questioning.

Araga also visited the blast site at Naguri and also met Purushotham Poojary, the autorickshaw driver who was injured in the blast, at a private hospital. Araga said that the government will fully bear the medical expenses of Poojary.

CM: Will write to my counterparts for coordinated effort

Halebid (Hassan district): Stressing on the need for coordination among states to combat terror activities, CM Bommai has said that he will write to his counterparts in southern states and their DGPs for concerted and united intelligence sharing. Bommai said people commit crime and flee by crossing the state border and hence he would request the CMs and DGPs to keep an eye on movement of suspected terrorists who cross borders after committing the crime. "When I was the Home Minister, I had given a call to all the DGPs of the southern states in this regard," he said. Hitting out at CLP leader Siddaramaiah for blaming intelligence failure for the recent Mangaluru blast, he said, "His statement is politically motivated. Terrorist activities have taken place in the past as well. The BJP government has put in sincere efforts to curb terror activities to some extent. We will never allow sleeper cells to operate." ENS

How many indoctrinated youth in state? Investigation on

THE blast, however, has created enough panic in the state raising questions of national security and the number of anonymous highly radicalised youth, who have been indoctrinated and recruited online by hardened jehadis outside the country who brainwash them into believing that their community is a victim of state policies, sources said.

Shariq is one among the other youth who have either been arrested or under surveillance in terror-related cases post the protests against the CAA and NRC in December 2020.

In August, the CCB and IB arrested Akhtar Hussain – an allegedly highly radicalised youth from Assam – in Bengaluru and his associate Adil alias Zuba from Salem in TN in a joint operation. Sources said, Akhtar and Zuba were reportedly "identified by the banned global terror organization - Al Qaeda for global jihad. They may have taken up the assignment when tasked with it to prove their readiness and commitment to jihad," said sources.

In August, the Shivamogga police arrested Md Zabiullah (30), Tanveer Ahmed (22), Nadeem Faisal (25) and Abdul Rehman (25) on charges of stabbing Prem Singh (20) during the Independence Day clashes over displaying the poster of Veer Savarkar in the city. Investigation revealed that Zabiullah was allegedly "indoctrinated by Jaish-e-Mohammed to engineer violence in the state," said informed sources.

On August 6, 2021, NIA arrested Jufri Jawhar Damudi (30) from Bhatkal in an ISIS recruitment case. He is the brother of Adnan Hasan Damudi who was arrested by NIA for ISIS-related activities in 2016 after being deported from the UAE. He was close to Sultan Armar, also from Bhatkal and the chief recruiter of ISIS in India. Sultan and his sibling Shafi were close to ISIS founder Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi and were killed in Syria and Afghanistan. Among the other radicalised youth from Karnataka are Arafath Ali, Musabbir Hussain and Abdul Matheen Ahmed Taahaa. NIA has announced Rs 3 lakh reward for information leading to the arrest of Matheen, who is wanted in Al-Hind ISIS Bengaluru module case, which is behind the murder of a TN Hindu leader.

VOTER DATA THEFT CASE

ECI top official to visit BBMP, seek info on scam

ENS @Bengaluru

THE Chief Election Commission on Wednesday directed Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) officials to keep all information ready, and cooperate with the deputy election commissioner (Dy EC), who will be visiting the corporation head office on Thursday.

A senior BBMP official said the DyCEC is visiting the city to seek details of the voter data theft case, impersonation by the NGO and revision of the draft voters' list. The official added that the visit is also to check preparations by the State Election Commission and BBMP on revision of draft voters' list and also house-to-house survey by revenue officers, booth level officers and booth level committee for voter enumeration, as assembly elections are likely to be held in April 2023.

"Visiting CEC officials may seek information on the voter data theft allegation, NGO staffers impersonating as booth level officers, booth level committee in Bengaluru, arrest of NGO officials, suspension of BBMP revenue officials for allegedly helping the NGO get ID cards as booth level officers etc. We have been asked to keep reports ready," said the assistant district election officer from Bengaluru Central Lok Sabha segment.

Meanwhile, Halasuru police are interrogating Chilume directors Kempegowda and Ravikumar, and staffers Dharmesh, Renuka Prasad and Lokesh, who were arrested on Saturday. They are alleged to be engaged in SVEEP since 2018, and it is stated that they could have done the same earlier too.

The Bengaluru Deputy Commissioner also ordered an inquiry against officials who served as Bengaluru East tahsildar, and allegedly gave permission to the NGO.

COPS QUIZ 45 ELECTORAL REGISTRATION OFFICERS

BENGALURU: The police investigating the voter data theft and misuse scam questioned nearly 45 Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) and Assistant Electoral Registration Officers (AEROs), on Wednesday. Police said the EROs and AEROs, who are revenue officers of the BBMP, were questioned separately by multiple teams. "A list of EROs and AEROs of the areas where the names of voters have been deleted was prepared and they were summoned for questioning. Nearly 45 of them appeared on Wednesday and have given their statement. Another batch of EROs and AEROs will be called for inquiry shortly. This is being done to find out whether they are involved in the fraud," a senior officer said. Further, the police seized two computers from the residence of the prime accused Ravikumar, the founder of the Chilume NGO. The police have so far arrested six persons in the case and the number of arrests will likely increase, as the police have strongly suspected the role of some BBMP staff in the case.

CONGRESS INTERFERING IN POLL ROLL, BJP WRITES TO ECI

BENGALURU: The Karnataka BJP on Monday wrote to the Election Commission of India urging action against the previous Congress government, led by Siddaramaiah, for engaging Chilume NGO, which is allegedly involved in the data theft case. MLC and BJP State General Secretary N Ravikumar in his letter alleged that the Congress is interfering in electoral roll revision. In his letter, Ravikumar said in Karnataka, Assembly polls are due in April 2023. As per ECI directives, the State Election Commission has taken up electoral rolls revision. During this process, they have deleted double entries and unauthorised names. However, Congress members in Karnataka are interfering by making false and misleading accusations, they said. "It is learnt that through the latest technology, the Election Commission is reviewing the voters' list to remove double entries. But the Congress wants this to be stopped as they are using bogus entries."

CONG TEAM MEETS CEC, WANTS ACTION AGAINST CM, MINISTERS

BENGALURU: A Congress delegation, led by party national general secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala, met Chief Election Commissioner Rajiv Kumar at Nirvachan Sadan on Wednesday and filed a complaint against NGO 'Chilume', which is allegedly involved in the theft of voter data in the 28 Assembly seats in Bengaluru Urban. Congress leaders submitted a memorandum with documents. They sought action against Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, his cabinet colleagues and BBMP chief commissioner. "First, permission was granted by the BBMP for Mahadevapura Assembly constituency and it was then extended to all the 28 Constituencies of Bengaluru through a GO on Aug. 20, 2022," they explained. "The election affidavit of ex-BJP MLA from KR Puram Nandiesh Reddy shows that he paid Rs 18 lakhs to Chilume Trust for voter data. The training of Chilume employees was conducted at the offices of a BJP MLA," they alleged. Surjewala said they told the CEC that names of 27 lakh voters had been deleted and SC/ST/minorities were targeted.

NIA takes over Shivamogga trial blast probe

MARX TEJASWI @Shivamogga

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) has taken up the investigation of the case under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act against Mohammed Shariq, Maaz Muneer and Syed Yassen for their alleged involvement in the trial blast and burning of the national flag on the banks of Tunga river in Shivamogga.

The trio has been accused of hatching a conspiracy to further the activities of ISIS and disturb the country's unity, security and sovereignty and wage a war against India. "In furtherance of this conspiracy, they stored the raw material required to make explosives and experimentally exploded a bomb made by them at a vacant place near the house of accused Yasin and burnt the National Flag of India," the NIA FIR stated.

The Shivamogga Rural police had registered cases in this regard under various sections of the IPC, UAPA and the Prevention of Insults to National Honours Act based on a complaint filed by the Doddapete police station investigation officer, who was probing the case where one Prem Singh was stabbed on Independence Day. While Shariq, the prime suspect in the recent Mangaluru blast, is currently undergoing treatment, Maaz and Syed are in judicial custody.

The NIA re-registered the FIR on November 15 based on the orders of the Ministry of Home Affairs. MHA had stated that considering the gravity of the offence, its security ramifications and national and international linkages, the case is required to be investigated by NIA.

Bhadravathi ASP Jitendra Kumara Dayama is the complainant in the case.

NIA has directed Amarnath Aagre, DySP, NIA branch office in Bengaluru, to be the chief investigation officer.

It also said that during the investigation, searches were conducted at different locations and digital evidence, electronic gadgets, the remnants of a shattered bomb found at the site of the blast, relay circuit, LED bulbs, matchboxes, wires, batteries, explosive particles and a half-burnt national flag were collected.

WAS SHARIQ A LONE WOLF OR HAD 2 AIDES?

BALA CHAUHAN
@Bengaluru

EVEN as the probe into Saturday's autorickshaw blast in Mangaluru awaits prime suspect Mohammed Shariq's recovery, there are several questions that need to be answered by him for a thorough investigation.

The cooker blast in the autorickshaw injured Shariq and the driver Purushottam Poojary.

The police have seized a lot of explosive material from Shariq's rented house in Mysuru. What is still unclear is why did Shariq travel to Mangaluru to carry out the blast? Who was his target? Was he alone or were there other accomplices? Who are they? The investigation so far has revealed that Shariq was travelling from Mysuru to Mangaluru, when he got off at Padil, which is 9km from Mangaluru city. He later hired an autorickshaw to continue with his journey. Why did he get off at Padil? Was he following someone's instructions? According to informed sources, the suspicion is on two youths from Shariq's native Thirthahalli in Shivamogga, who may either be his accomplice or may have known about the terror plot. Shariq, who went absconding, was red-flagged in September this year by the Shivamogga police after they arrested two youths - Maaz Muneer Ahmed and Syed Yasin for conducting a blast and burning the National Flag on the banks of the Tunga river.

The investigation in the case largely rests on Shariq's interrogation. He continues to be in the ICU and is not in a condition to give any statement to the police as yet.

Issue fresh notice to Santhosh: HC

Telangana High Court tells SIT to ask BJP leader to appear before it for questioning

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hyderabad

THE Telangana High Court on Wednesday ordered the Special Investigation Team (SIT) to send a fresh notice under Section 41A of the CrPC to Bharatiya Janata Party national general secretary BL Santhosh by email and WhatsApp, to appear before it in the investigation of the TRS MLAs' poaching case.

A single-judge bench headed by Justice B Vijaysen Reddy ordered Advocate General BS Prasad to submit counter-affidavits in the main writ petition and any Interlocutory Applications submitted by those to whom the SIT has issued notices.

Prasad and Additional Advocate General J Ramachander Rao appeared before the court in the morning and informed that despite the efforts of the SIT and Delhi Police, Santhosh did not appear for questioning. They added that the summons was delivered at the BJP office in New Delhi on November 20.

AAG Rao argued that Santhosh was deliberately delaying appearing before the SIT in order to obliterate electronic evidence, a vital component in the inquiry.

"What if Santhosh deletes data from his mobile device? Furthermore, it is said that Santhosh's appearance before the SIT after the destruction of crucial evidence will be useless. The basic goal of the SIT would be defeated if such were the case," he contended.

Defending the BJP leader, senior counsel and former MLC N Ramchander Rao refuted the assertions made by the AG and AAG. He told the court that there is no reason to question Santhosh's credentials. As a law-abiding person who follows court orders, Santhosh addressed a letter to the SIT, stating that he was too busy with his political activities to appear. Since the SIT is in charge of evidence, the possibility of evidence destruction is disregarded, he mentioned.

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor at the Kannur DCC office on Wednesday | EXPRESS

Satheesan's ploy backfires, Tharoor emerges stronger

CYNTHIA CHANDRAN @T'Puram

SHASHI Tharoor seems to be emerging stronger in the state Congress with each passing day. Leader of Opposition V D Satheesan's attack on Tharoor has apparently backfired with senior leaders, including K Muraleedharan and Mullappally Ramachandran, coming out in support of the latter. Moreover, members of the now defunct A-group is gradually gravitating to the Thiruvananthapuram MP.

Tharoor returned to the state capital on Wednesday, after completing his four-day Malabar tour, which observers feel was a runaway success. Interestingly, both Tharoor and Satheesan flew back in the same flight. Talking to reporters on arrival, Tharoor chose not to kick up any controversies, even as he subtly responded to Satheesan's tirade against him on Tuesday.

Tharoor said he doesn't understand why his Malabar visit and the NSS' invitation to him to inaugurate Mannam Jayanti have courted controversy. "I see the invitation from the NSS leadership to inaugurate the Mannam Jayanti as a recognition. Whose loss is it if I attend the Mannam Jayanti? It should be checked whether the Leader of Opposition has got the needle to prick the balloon? These questions should be posed to those who raked up the controversy," he said.

> I see the invitation from the NSS leadership to inaugurate the Mannam Jayanti as a recognition... It should be checked whether the Leader of Opposition has got the needle to prick the balloon?
> Shashi Tharoor, MP

He said "I met Satheesan on board my flight. I said hello. Since our seats were not near, we couldn't talk to each other." Satheesan did not speak to the media at the airport.

Tharoor's supporters assess that the opposite camp's strategy to isolate him has misfired. It was the Youth Congress Kozhikode district committee's last-minute decision to withdraw hosting Tharoor that brought his Malabar tour to limelight. Had they continued with the scheduled programme, it would have passed as a mundane affair, they feel.

Meanwhile Satheesan's remark ridiculing Tharoor hasn't gone down well with many leaders. A large section within the Congress feels that the Leader of Opposition should not have made the comment.

T'kuru Rural MLA, ex-MLA allege threat to their lives

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Tumakuru

WITH Assembly elections fast approaching, Tumakuru rural JDS MLA D C Gowrishankar and former MLA B Suresh Gowda have made a serious allegation of threat to their lives against each other and the issue has reached the Superintendent of Police's office.

A video of Suresh Gowda alleging that Gowrishankar had given supari to a notorious history sheeter who is now in Parappana Agrahara for allegedly hacking former Tumakuru Mayor Ravi to death three years ago, had created ripples. "Yes I have a threat to my life from the MLA and brought the issue to the police," Gowda said.

Replying to Gowda's remarks, Gowrishankar said he too has a threat to his life from the former and wrote a two-page letter to SP Rahul Kumar Shahapurwad on Wednesday. He said he will raise the issue in the winter session of the joint legislature slated to be held in Belagavi between December 19 and December 30. "BJP is in power both at the Centre and the state. Let them order a CBI probe. Suresh Gowda might have a plan to create unrest in the constituency and kill me," he alleged.

HC to TN govt: Bury hatchet on burial grounds

R SIVAKUMAR @Chennai

LAMENTING that the shackles of casteism could not be broken even 75 years after independence, the Madras High Court has asked the Tamil Nadu government to make a good beginning by turning burial grounds common for all communities.

"Even a secular government is forced to provide for separate burning and burial grounds on communal lines," observed a division bench of Justices R Subramanian and K Kumaresh Babu in its recent order in dispute over burying bodies in a remote village in Salem district.

The bench stated, "Equality has to start at least when the person travels to his/her maker." Quoting the lines of celebrated poet Bharathiyar that 'there are no castes', the bench noted that even in the 21st century, we are grappling with casteism and division along caste lines in burying the dead. The situation has to change for the better, the bench said, and hoped that "The government of the day would come forward to make a beginning by making at least burial grounds and burning grounds common to all communities."

The judges made the observations while setting aside an order of a single judge (writ court) who ordered exhumation of a body that was said to have been buried on a plot, a cart track, not designated as burial ground at Navakurichi village in Athur in Salem district.

ISRO completes 200th consecutive launch of Rohini rocket

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) successfully launched its indigenously built Rohini RH-200 sounding rocket on Wednesday. It was a historic moment, since it is the sounding rocket's 200th consecutive launch, having completed 100 launches in 2015. The launch was witnessed by former president Ram Nath Kovind, alongside ISRO Chairman S Somanath, at the Thumba Equatorial Rocket Launching Station (TERLS) at the Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC) in Thiruvananthapuram. "It was a matter of pride visiting the VSSC today, the largest centre under ISRO, responsible for the design and development of launch vehicle technology. We also witnessed the 200th launch of Rohini RH-200 sounding rocket," said Kovid, who was on a two-day visit to Kerala.

The RH-200 is one of three sounding rockets currently operational with ISRO, the other two being the RH-300 Mk 2 and the RH-560 Mk 2. The rockets are part of a series of sounding rockets developed by ISRO under the Rohini Sounding Rocket (RSR) Programme. Currently, the RH-200 has had a total of over 1,600 launches.

Encroachment a big issue

REVENUE Department sources said that in many places, land has been encroached in the name of farming. "They have occupied hilltops, lake sides and forest land. It is challenging to vacate them. If we do that, they will brand the government and officials anti-farmer. These people are not farmers, but encroachers," they added. Over 2,000 villages in the state do not have graveyards, while many others lack proper roads. All these issues are because of lack of land, they added.

Court restrains sale, distribution of book

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A CITY civil court has issued a temporary injunction on the sale and distribution, even on online platforms, of the controversial Kannada book 'Tippu Nija Kanasugalu', authored by Addanda C Cariappa, director of Mysuru Rangayana. However, the order does not apply to staging the play based on the book.

The plaintiff, Rafiulla BS, a former chairman of the Bengaluru District Wakf Board Committee and a resident of Bengaluru, had stated that the book contains information without historical support, it does not show from where the author got the information, and the book was published on the author's own interpretation of facts. Besides, he contended that the book contained derogatory remarks against the Muslim community and it may cause unrest and communal disharmony.

"The reading of the foreword and the preface of the book shows that the writer of the foreword and the author of the play claim that the book is based on truth. They claimed that the play is based on historical fact and that what is actually taught through history textbooks in schools is false. It is also claimed that it is based on research and was published to unveil the true nature of Tipu Sultan. These contentions by the author will show that the plaintiff has a prima facie case for grant of temporary injunction," the court pointed out.

Bommai hits back at Fadnavis for remark on boundary dispute

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @Belagavi

IN response to Maharashtra Deputy CM Devendra Fadnavis' statement on Wednesday that not a single village/town from Maharashtra will be merged with Karnataka, CM Basavaraj Bommai hit out at the former in his series of tweets. "Fadnavis issued provocative statements with regard to the boundary dispute between both the states. Fadnavis' dreams will never come true. The Karnataka state is committed to protecting its land water and borders," Bommai tweeted.

The issue of boundary dispute between both the states took a serious turn when the Maharashtra government moved the Supreme Court demanding the merger of several areas of Karnataka with Maharashtra in 2004. With the case slated for hearing this month, both the governments are involved in issuing statements on the dispute for the past few days. What enraged Bommai on Wednesday was a tweet by Fadnavis in which the latter said, "Not even a single village/town from Maharashtra will go to Karnataka. The Maharashtra government will fight strongly in the Supreme Court to claim Belagavi, Karwar, Nippani and other Marathi areas on the border."

In his hard-hitting response, Bommai tweeted, "There is no question of Karnataka giving an inch of its land to anybody. Our demand has been to include the Kannada-majority areas of Maharashtra like Akkalkot and Solapur to Karnataka."

Siddu tells CM to form all-party panel

BENGALURU: Leader of Opposition in the State Legislative Assembly Siddaramaiah urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to constitute an advisory committee comprising leaders of opposition parties to strengthen the state's case in the border dispute with Maharashtra. The former CM said a senior minister should be assigned the responsibility of supervising all developments related to the border dispute. In a letter to CM Bommai, Siddaramaiah expressed concern over the state government not taking adequate measures to counter the Maharashtra government, which has formed a 16-member committee of opposition leaders, and also appointed two ministers to monitor the developments.

Man gets 43 yrs jail for raping minor on Darshan's farm

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

THE Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) special court has sentenced a youth to 43 years rigorous imprisonment and ₹50,000 fine for raping a minor.

A native of Bihar, the convict was working at the Vinish Darshan Katewari Stud Farm on T Narasipura Main Road owned by Sandalwood actor Darshan Thoogudeepa. He was guilty of raping a 10-year-old. Her parents, who are from Shivamogga district, were working in the farmhouse and lived in the farm along with their minor daughter and son.

The convict had allegedly raped the minor girl on October 13. The child's mother along with farm house manager Nagaraj lodged a complaint with Mysuru Rural Women police station on October 15. Based on the complaint, the police arrested Najeeb under POCSO Act and filed a chargesheet.

POCSO special court judge Shayma Khamroz found the accused guilty of the crime and sentenced him under POCSO Act. The judge awarded 43 years of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of ₹50,000. The court also directed the Legal Service Authority to pay a compensation of ₹7 lakh to the victim from the Victim's Relief Fund. Special Public Prosecutor K B Jayanthi argued on behalf of the victim.

Kannada activists bat for Jakkali Bhuvaneshwari as official portrait

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

MEMBERS of the Gadag District Kannada Sahitya Parishat and pro-Kannada organisations have opposed the decision of a five-member committee for a new portrait of Nada Devathe Bhuvaneshwari.

They have been demanding that the government finalise the oil painting of Goddess Bhuvaneshwari that was prepared in 1953 at Jakkali village. Last year, when the planning to finalise the portrait of the goddess commenced, some writers and Kannada activists requested the state government to use Jakkali's picture and invited KSP president Mahesh Joshi to see the portrait. They explained that the photo also had images of Hampi, Shravanabelagola, Banavasi, Sringeri, Gol Gumbaz, the Hoysala emblem, Mysuru Chamundeshwari, Jog Falls, Karavali, and the Banashankari temple, highlighting the idea of Karnataka. However, the government did not consider this photo, prompting the people of this region to demand a review of the decision for a new Goddess Bhuvaneshwari photo, as per the committee.

Some activists said, "The photo of Goddess Bhuvaneshwari which has been used for the last seven decades has many strong points. The goddess is standing with a book and her head is tilted on the right side, which looks like the head of the Karnataka map. There are some pictures on the borders, which cover major parts of the state."

Camp tusker Gopalswamy dies in fight at Nagarahole

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

GOPALSWAMY, the popular 37-year-old camp elephant from the Nagarahole Tiger Reserve (NTR), succumbed to injuries on Wednesday afternoon.

The tusker had suffered fatal injuries after getting into a fight with a wild elephant after venturing into the forest on Tuesday night. He had suffered injuries on his limbs, near his stomach and genital region, forest officials and veterinarians said.

This is the first death of a camp elephant since 2011 and the fourth in the last 15 years, forest records showed. Experts said that such cases are rare as camp elephants are well protected. But over time, they lose their wild survival instinct. "Camp elephants start getting used to humans after staying in captivity for long. They start developing a tendency to run back to human habitations when they encounter a wild elephant in conflict. Gopalswamy was strong, but it is possible that he could not fight it out," said a senior forest department officer. Gopalswamy, who was captured in 2009 from Sakleshpur in Hassan, was trained and placed at the Mattigudu elephant camp in NTR. "While he was a popular kumki elephant, used in many wild elephant capture and rescue operations, he had a close bond with all the mahouts and kawadis. He had returned from Chikkamagaluru just 15 days ago after one such operation. He was popular among forest department circles too, as he had the temperament to follow commands and at the same time retain his wild instincts that helped in rescue operations," mahouts who worked with Gopalswamy said.

NTR Director Harshakumar Chikkanaragund told The New Indian Express that Gopalswamy was also trained to carry the golden howdah this year for Mysuru Dasara. The postmortem was conducted as per procedure.

EC MUST GET TO BOTTOM OF BENGALURU VOTER DATA THEFT ROW

The latest scam to shake up Karnataka is the alleged theft of voter details and large-scale deletion of voters' names in some crucial constituencies in Bengaluru. At last count, the number was 27 lakh, a big chunk of Bengaluru's 79 lakh voters. The common voter is still trying to process what happened, who is responsible, and how it could affect voting rights. Chilume Educational Cultural and Rural Development Institute, an NGO hired for the Systematic Voters Education and Electoral Participation (SVEEP) to update the voters' list ahead of the civic and assembly elections, allegedly went beyond its brief and collected voters' caste data.

As details of the scam continue to tumble out, several procedural violations are coming to light—that NGO workers took on the role of Booth Level Officers and undertook household surveys privately without being accompanied by Election Commission staffers. It is said that more than 7,000 people, apart from Chilume staff, were hired on a contract basis for this work. This exercise appears to be a bid to profile voters and delete names en masse, revealing an insidious plot of voter fraud. The ramifications are wide and deep, hitting at the very roots of democracy and depriving a section of citizens of the constitutional right to franchise.

The needle of suspicion points to those who might want to access the data and gain by manipulating voter ratios in some constituencies. The opposition has raised a storm and urges all communities, especially minorities, to check the voter list. In a country where caste and religion can carve the electorate into voting blocs, deleting names is advantageous to the political leaders behind this racket.

The Congress has raised the pertinent point that Form 7 is required to delete a voter's name and sought to know who has signed lakhs of these forms. The Election Commission has ordered a probe, and five people were arrested and are being questioned, including the NGO founder Ravikumar, but a clear picture is yet to emerge. There are also allegations that he has strong links with powerful people. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who has strongly defended his government, also directed officials to probe such exercises carried out since 2013. The scandal only shows that our constitutional bodies are in peril, and it is up to the Election Commission and courts to bring back some order.

UPDATE SURGERY CODES, AVOID HOSPITAL LAPSES

It was supposed to have been a relatively simple procedure that would help a young footballer pursuing a degree in physical education to return to the playing field. Instead, medical negligence by a series of government medical staff first cost 17-year-old Priya her leg and eventually her life. Priya underwent surgery to repair a ligament tear. As part of the procedure, a tourniquet band was placed to restrict blood flow to the area being operated upon. After the procedure, the tourniquet should have been removed. Yet, the surgical team failed to do so. Even when Priya complained of pain after the surgery, it was dismissed as related to the procedure. It appears no one checked her leg and noticed the tourniquet. By the time the mistake was realised, it was too late: 24 hours had passed. Without blood flow, gangrene had set in. Another medical team amputated the leg, but even that could not save her.

An inquiry found five medical staff, including the surgeons, at fault for medical negligence. Police have booked all five. While accountability may have been fixed in the immediate case, clearly, there are systemic issues plaguing government medical facilities in Tamil Nadu that need to be studied. As proud as the state may be of its healthcare achievements, not all is well.

First, why was such a procedure performed at a peripheral hospital? Doctors have said the facility had been upgraded to handle surgeries, but this was the first time this particular procedure was performed there, and no protocol had yet been put in place. Second, even if a protocol specific to this procedure was not in place, the government facilities are supposed to follow a WHO checklist for surgeries. Is adherence to the checklist so poor? Third, while staffing may not have been an issue at play in this case, there are poorly staffed facilities where such oversights could occur. The Health Department has since conducted a workshop with surgeons at government hospitals and released a 'reappraisal' on protocols and checklists in the form of a booklet. Significantly, it has ordered the setting up of regional death audit panels in four districts to study deaths following surgeries at government facilities. These are welcome steps that may contribute to better compliance. If only a young life had not been the price to pay.

QUICK TAKE

REGULATE THE UNGULATES

Animal-train collisions are not limited to the Mumbai-Gandhinagar Vande Bharat Express route. They have been a national phenomenon for decades. Worse accidents happen in eastern and northeastern states involving wild elephants from the jungles, not just domestic cows from villages near the tracks. The government's answer is to fence or wall the worst-affected sections. These are post facto measures. Animal interference must be factored in when planning rail projects, considering modern trains are lightweight and require more expensive repairs after a collision. The same goes for new expressways where ambling cattle slow down traffic, defeating the purpose of high-speed corridors.

KNOWLEDGE GASPING FOR AIR IN TUTORIAL COLLEGE NATION

SHIV VISVANATHAN

Social scientist associated with THE COMPOST HEAP, a group researching alternative imaginations

When one gets up in the morning and grabs the newspaper, he or she is surprised to see that global headlines give way to huge advertisements. What dominates the front page are tutorial college advertisements. They are full-page statements where every teacher is called Sir, and all the performances are announced with a loudness that would be the envy of any town crier. Different groups advertise their wares on different days, virtually declaring a brand war.

For an old-style academic, these rituals are disturbing, but he has to admit that the tutorial college dominates the front page in a way the UGC would not dare. As a folk phenomenon, it has become formidable. One creation myth about tutorial college is fascinating. It goes back to Lord Macaulay's Minute on Education. Macaulay, with colonial arrogance, said: "A single shelf of a good European library was worth the whole native literature of India and Arabia." We Indians took it literally and reduced Western civilisation to a shelf which the tutorial college summarised brilliantly. This is not just the vision of liberal arts and humanities; IITs would not exist without tutorial colleges. The entire education industry in Kota city in Rajasthan is a consequence of IIT exam fever.

The tutorial college as a phenomenon and a mindset with its double, the quiz, has become almost an epidemic. I remember sitting at a school where a psychologist was delivering a preschool test. She complained about a child who saw an outline of three petals and said it was an electric fan. The psychologist was fuming that the child did not recognise that it was a flower. I pointed out that the child was right, but the psychologist claimed there could be only one right answer to a question.

The tutorial college of India achieved the colonial dream of it being a nation of clerks. As a leftist cynic claims, it is not the dictatorship of the proletariat that dominates India but the dictatorship of "filariat". India, he claimed, wanted to play a secretariat to the world. He explained that as a nation, we have accepted our secondariness, and now we seek to maximise it. As a leading astronomer confessed, "We Indians have become the best summarisers in the world. Sadly, we have lost our sense of originality." The era of Jagadish Bose, Raman and Ramanujan is over. The scientist claimed that economically, we had created a comparative advantage out of mediocrity. Ours is not a country of original thought or rebellious dissent at the level of ideas. We are the summarisers of the world. As Sanjay Dutt's film Munna Bhai demonstrated, even Gandhi can be reduced to a quick quiz. Given this, what chance do others have? The tutorial college packs information as bytes of knowledge or wisdom. It is so rigidly structured that there is little sense of plurality or alternatives.

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The tutorial college was a prelude to the idea of Scopus as an index of success. Here, success was narrowed to rankings. I still remember a student at the Delhi University hostel reciting IAS ranks as if it were cricket scores. There is little sense of play or surprise. The 'Kunji' (a handbook of quick answers) has become a sacred or official text. As an economist would say, it is a Giffen good, a case where something inferior pretends to be superior. I must admit that there are defenders of the tutorial college. An activist friend of mine, now in the IAS, said, "The tutorial college and the kunji provided quick access to knowledge. Why buy expensive books when they are summarised in a digestible way that is both cheap and accessible?" He added that Indian education is not about quality but access and inclusion. Tutorial colleges enable this process even better than public universities. He said nostalgically that some kunjis are almost legendary.

He added, "I remember a story a friend told me. He went to the Delhi School of Economics when Amartya Sen and Jagdish Bhagwati were legends there." He said his friend went home and boasted about the legends; the uncle looked indifferently and said that the textbook of economics that he read, by Ruddar Dutt and K P M Sundaram, was equally legendary. The uncle said, "They have done more to spread economic ideas than your elite professors."

One does not deny that access is important, but if it gets restricted to two textbooks, does education really work? What happens to a student who cannot recite Shakespeare but can paraphrase him word for word from a kunji? The joy of language disappears. There is no possibility of alternative interpretations or re-reading a text for a different exegesis. Yet tutorial colleges have acquired respectability as retired IAS officers serve on the board, hoping to reproduce their success and create a generation of mimic mandarins. Even the IT industry appears more and more like an electronic secretariat with the digital and textual in happy complicity. The tutorial college is becoming official without any embarrassment.

The question, however, is not one of success and access alone. The impact of the tutorial college is clearly seen at the level of research, where originality and crafts skills are called for. Copycat knowledge might sustain bits of applied science but destroys the joy of original research. There is a bureaucratisation of research problems as we choose simpler and safer problems. The mediocre acquires a magical quality.

India, like the world, is facing the challenge of the Anthropocene, which demands a critique of science, a new idea of economics, and a different sense of nature. Both our syllabi and Constitution are outdated. As a tutorial college nation, we become carriers of outdated western ideas. The tutorial college, as a cultural gene, suppresses the alternative imagination in all its forms. More than a revolution in politics, India today needs a transformation in education.

We require a new framework of ideas and an explosion of vernaculars, not a fetishisation of the digital. We advocate artificial intelligence but worry little about the surrogate intelligence created by the tutorial college as a mindset. The sense of experiment, play or risk is completely lost as Einstein, Bohr and Gandhi get reduced to 10 predictable questions with equally predictable answers. One hardly confronts such issues while seeking technological fixes to all our problems. A reworking of culture and philosophy has to herald any new form of problem-solving. As poet W H Auden put it in another context, "Thou shalt not answer questionnaires" or its idiot predictability.

FRIEND-SHORING AND INDIA'S G20 PRESIDENCY

HINDOL SENGUPTA

Multiple award-winning historian and author

A lot has been said, and indeed is being said, about India's showcase of its sustainability attributes, commitment to renewable energy, and affirmations of its Paris pledges and efforts to transition parts of its economy to clean energy.

One of the elements of India's G20 presidency that needs greater underlining, though, is its economic role in the world. India is now the fifth-largest economy in the world and one of the fastest in the world and likely to be, as the world's biggest hedge fund Bridgewater Associates' founder Ray Dalio said recently, for the next decade. According to a new analysis from Morgan Stanley, India might become the third-largest economy in the world as early as 2027.

US Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen highlighted the importance of India's economic prowess when she promoted the idea of 'friend-shoring' during a recent visit to India. Now friend-shoring is a clever way of talking about an issue that has grown immensely in importance since the Covid-19 pandemic, namely, the resilience of global supply chains.

The globalisation model we have seen in the last 30–40 years has had one definitive trend—the expansion of supply chains, or what used to be called off-shoring. This was the name given to the process of choosing to move manufacturing to cheaper locations, mostly in Asia, by companies in the Western world.

But this process has been under pressure for years, first due to often misplaced accusations of 'foreigners stealing jobs', but then, the more serious and sustainable problem arose during the Covid-19 pandemic, when the question of manufacturing in, especially, China, was found to be far more fragile than had earlier been anticipated.

Therefore, the big question that emerged during the pandemic was supply-chain resilience. Could concepts like 'in-time' manufacturing work if the underlying supply chain is unreliable?

This has caused a lot of conversation about reshoring—but the fact is, for many global corporations, the numbers needed for reshoring don't add up. Their home countries neither have the volume of skilled workers nor the scale to produce vast numbers of goods to supply to their global customer base. Reshoring, in many cases, would just not make economic sense.

What was the alternative? Supply-chain resilience through an alliance among countries that would avoid conflict. When I was starting my career as a business journalist, there was a lot of talk about American columnist Thomas L Friedman's 'Golden Arches Theory of Conflict Prevention'. Friedman argued that countries with McDonald's—meaning those of a similar broad economic level—did not go to war against one another.

This, of course, turned out to be completely wrong and simplistic, as that other famous Friedman assertion—the world is flat. We now know that both these ideas, the Golden Arches theory and that technology is flattening the world, that is, democratising it, are wrong.

> G20 is the platform for India to talk up its role in securing global growth and ensuring that some of the most vital supply chains remain resilient. It is a safe haven for American (and global) money and manufacturing

Countries with McDonald's do, in fact, go to war. Far from being flat, the world is today worrying about the weaponisation of technology, including digital financial systems and even social media.

Therefore, in a hark back to older ideas of like-minded nations and alliances, we now have the concept of friend-shoring. The idea is that if the supply chain is in a friendly nation, it is less likely to be disrupted. Therefore, it is not trade or technology that makes the world peaceful, but a peaceful world or relations between countries that provide a context for the development of business and technology.

This is critical because understanding this gives India the framework it needs to pitch its economic argument during its G20 presidency. Yellen's 'friend-shoring' has even given India a shorthand to describe this.

The argument goes something like this: India must take a leadership position in the world because it provides a haven for capital and supply chains to prosper safely and democratically without any risk of authoritarian disruption.

Unlike in China, for instance, there is no risk of the Indian government clamping down on its tech giants and restricting their growth and operations. Nor is it likely to do something like that in any other industry.

India is one of the world's most entrepreneur-encouraging destinations today, with a prime minister who never tires of urging his people to become job-givers and not just job-seekers. It has the world's third-largest startup ecosystem. Its investments in physical and digital technology are creating the world's biggest democratic marketplace with opportunities for scale and growth unlike any other place.

G20 is the platform for India to talk up its role in securing global growth and ensuring that some of the most vital supply chains remain resilient. It is a safe haven for American (and global) money and manufacturing. India is the gateway to the Indo-Pacific. It is the largest democratic market in the world.

India's multiple transitions, from a green economy to grassroots digitisation, will create the biggest opportunities of the next two decades. Indian electric vehicles and the mass manufacture of mobile phones and digital products of every kind will soak up minerals, including critical minerals, from around the world. India will be manufacturing not just for its own consumption but for the world.

Friend-shoring, then, is a neat description of India's argument today. It can safely bring ashore economic requirements urgently needed for the stability and growth of the global economy as it hurtles towards a crisis. This economic argument must underpin India's G20 efforts because it is in a position to offer this much-needed succour at a time when the world faces one of its worst recessions, perhaps in history.

FIFA cliffhanger

The 2–1 defeat of Argentina by Saudi Arabia in FIFA has stunned all football fans. This defeat of the favourites by the minnows is not uncommon in sports. This unexpected event has only made the tournament all the more interesting and adds spice to the game.

Rahul's capability

Apropos of Rahul Gandhi, Savarkar, and the clemency question (Nov 22). It was very enlightening and depicted the events correctly. It is important to relate history to the present and make an inference. The Indian public has always discounted the capability of Rahul Gandhi on many issues and this is always a good marketing point for the BJP. He needs to be secular in his comments and have firm convictions.

Cartoon piques mind

The cartoon in The New Indian Express' Bodyline (Nov 23) about Shashi Tharoor is thought-provoking. Though Tharoor has not violated any party norms, some leaders of the Congress (mainly from Kerala) are behind him with swords, as illustrated. Readers await more cartoons from TNIE.

Fund has loose ends

Apropos of 'Loss and damage' fund at Climate summit holds out real hope (Nov 23). It is marvellous how countries have set aside their differences and come together for this summit. Although a fund has been created, there is no proper framework in place for how it will be set up and who will pay how much.

Goodbye, social evil

Apropos of Crush untouchability by changing mindset (Nov 23). Despite 75 years of Independence, this social evil could not be eradicated. Laws exist, but it can only be crushed if there is cooperation among the concerned authorities and people. Like the editorial mentions, including sports will greatly help in promoting national unity and eradicating divisive tendencies.

Tharoor's intentions

Apropos of Fall in line, high command tells Tharoor (Nov 23). The face-off between Shashi Tharoor and V D Satheesan must be less publicised in the interest of political survival of the Congress in Kerala and at the national level. The KPCC chief and the Leader of the Opposition must learn the true intentions behind Tharoor's moves without contriving imaginary and wishful notions about the latter.

Arun Goel will occupy the position which fell vacant in May this year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

FORMER bureaucrat Arun Goel, who took charge as an Election Commissioner here on Wednesday, will occupy a position which fell vacant in May this year after the then Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sushil Kumar retired and handed over the baton to Rajiv Kumar. The second Election Commissioner is Anup Chandra Pandey.

Kumar, the incumbent CEC, is away in Nepal as an international observer for the general elections in that country called and congratulated Goel before welcoming him to the vital constitutional body. He expressed confidence that the appointment of Goel, a former IAS officer of the Punjab cadre, will strengthen the EC's "endeavours" in ensuring that the electoral process becomes more "inclusive, accessible and participative".

In his 37 years in the bureaucracy, Goel has served several ministries at the Centre and departments in his home cadre. Belonging to the 1985 batch of the IAS, Goel was secretary at the Ministry of Heavy Industries between 2020 and 2022 when he is said to have catalysed e-vehicle movement to a "tipping point". During 2018-2019, Goel was the secretary at the Ministry of Culture.

Prior to this, Goel was the additional secretary and financial adviser at the Ministry of Labour and Employment for a year and during 2015 and 2016 he was the vice chairman of the Delhi Development Authority (DDA). For two years (2012-2014), Goel was the joint secretary in the finance ministry's revenue department and served in the same position for a year (2011) in the Ministry of Urban Development. That was also the year he moved to the Centre on deputation. In 2010, Goel was the principal secretary (Power and Irrigation) and held the same designation between 2007 and 2009 when he served the Housing and Urban Development department. He was the secretary, Department of Expenditure in 2006 and was the managing director of the Punjab Industries and Export Corporation during 2003-2005. Goel headed the Punjab Warehousing Corporation as its managing director between 2001 and 2002. For five years (1995-2000) he was the district election officer (DEO) and collector, based in Ludhiana and in 1994 he was MD of Chandigarh Industrial and Tourism Development Corporation.

He has been financial advisor at Labour Min

Arun Goel was the additional secretary and financial adviser at the Ministry of Labour and Employment for a year and during 2015 and 2016 he was the vice chairman of the DDA. Goel postgraduate degree in Development Economics from Churchill College, Cambridge, with distinction.

Rijiju-Karan meet triggers speculation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE meeting between Union Law Minister Kiran Rijiju and senior Congress leader and former Union Minister Dr. Karan Singh at his residence has sparked speculation that the latter is warming up to the saffron party.

The meeting assumes significance as it came close on the heels of Rijiju criticizing Singh, son of Hari Singh, the last ruling Maharaja of the princely state of J&K, over his opinion piece on Kashmir's accession. Rijiju has been critical of India's first Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's policies on Kashmir.

Earlier in September, Dr. Singh's remarks on 'zero relation' with Congress led to murmurs about the erstwhile royal jumping ship. This came after former J&K Chief Minister and senior Congress leader Ghulam Nabi Azad resigned from the party. The veteran leader was also upset about being dropped from the Congress Working Committee. Sharing pictures of their meeting, Rijiju tweeted, "I had a worthwhile discussion with former Regent, Sadar-i-Riyasat and Governor of Jammu and Kashmir Dr. Karan Singh.

Cong leader moves SC seeking review of EWS quota verdict

SHRUTI KAKKAR @New Delhi

CONGRESS leader Jaya Thakur has approached the Supreme Court seeking a review of the SC verdict that upheld 10% reservation granted to the economically weaker sections (EWS) in jobs and admissions.

The quota was introduced by way of the 103rd amendment which had inserted Article 15(6) and 16(6) in the Constitution. A five-judge bench of the SC had on November 7 upheld the amendment by 3:2 majority, with Justices Dinesh Maheshwari, Bela M Trivedi and JB Pardiwala upholding the validity of the verdict. Former CJI UU Lalit and Justice SR Bhat had declared the 10% quota as "unconstitutional".

Thakur has now sought a review against the verdict. In the 154-page judgment, Maheshwari had said that exclusion of the classes covered by Articles 15(4), 15(5) and 16(4) (SEBCs/OBCs/SCS/STS) from getting the benefit of reservation as EWS did not cause damage to the basic structure of the Constitution. Trivedi and Pardiwala had concurred with the view taken by Maheshwari. Seeking a review, Thakur has argued that 10% reservation provided to the economically weaker sections of only forward castes was a breach of equality code amounting to discrimination.

The plea further added that exclusion of SC/ST/OBC is a violation of the right to equality. Countering the views taken by the judges in the majority, the plea also says, "Justice Maheshwari's finding that the exclusion of SC/ST/OBC from the 103rd Amendment does not violate equality, is completely problematic because the yardstick for the same is one's economic basis only. Justice Bela M Trivedi, while upholding the 103rd amendment stated that a re-visit into the reservation policy is necessary, which is contrary to her own findings in the judgment. Meanwhile, Justice JB Pardiwala's judgment notes that Dr BR Ambedkar wanted to place a time limit on reservations is incorrect."

The reservations for the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe communities are in proportion with their share of the population, the plea adds.

LEADER OF OPPN

Cong yet to find replacement of Kharge in RS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

With the winter session of the Parliament scheduled to start in two weeks, the Congress party seems to be dragging its feet on choosing the next Leader of Opposition (LoP) of Rajya Sabha. The post fell vacant after veteran Congress leader Mallikarjun Kharge resigned as the LoP in consonance with the party's 'One leader, One post' policy adopted in the Udaipur 'Chintan Shivir' declaration. Sticking to the party line, Kharge tendered his resignation to former party President Sonia Gandhi on September 29, after filing the nomination for the chief post.

Kharge assumed charge as LoP in the Upper House in February 2021 after the retirement of Ghulam Nabi Azad. After Kharge's resignation, the names of senior Congress leaders P Chidambaram, Mukul Wasnik, Digvijay Singh, and Pramod Tiwari have been doing the rounds as front runners for the post. Party sources said that Digvijay Singh may be a more acceptable choice for the party as an able administrator from the Northern belt. Singh had opted out of the Congress presidential race to back Kharge.

Despite border stand-off, trade between India, China up 14.6%

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

INDIA'S reliance on trade with China continues to be on the rise – irrespective of the political and diplomatic stand-off between the two nations. Even though Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, did shake hands with China's President, Xi Jingping, in Bali during the G20 Summit, India is trying its best to shake off its dependence on China.

"India and China's trade has increased by 14. 6 per cent during the first nine months of the ongoing year to reach $103.6 billion," reiterated China's foreign ministry spokesperson, Zhao Lijan.

The spokesperson also said that China's trade with South Asian countries nearly doubled from what it was a decade ago. One of the largest contributors to this increase was India. "India has been trying to boost domestic manufacturing and is also trying to buy from other markets, but economies of scale and cost effectiveness give China an edge," say sources.

India's currently has a Free Trade Agreement (FTA) with the United Arab Emirates (UAE); has finalised one with Australia and one in the pipeline with the United Kingdom (UK) that will lead to a reduction in trade dependence on China, but it will take a few years before the results begin to show. There is also a trade imbalance as while imports from nations increased, but exports from India have gone down. Last year China's exports increased by over 30 per cent whilst India's exports declined by over 35 per cent. India exports raw materials to China but imports primarily finished goods.

Electronic goods and rare earth materials are imported on a large scale from China. The border issue at LAC is one of the biggest reasons for political stand off between India and China with situation getting critical in 2020 when the Galwan clashes took place in which 20 Indian soldiers were killed. India subsequently banned over 200 Chinese apps and also stalled investments. Meanwhile, China says that its economy has benefitted from its friendly neighbours and development partners.

"China's trade with South Asian countries nearly doubled compared to a decade ago and totalled $187.5 billion in 2021, up by over $50 billion than the pre-COVID number in 2019. In particular, trade between China and India in the first nine months this year reached $103.6 billion, up 14.6 percent year-on-year," says China's foreign ministry spokesperson adding that the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor, the Port City Colombo project and the Hambantota Port in Sri Lanka and other connectivity cooperation projects are all making steady progress.

Need global efforts to curb cross-border terror: Rajnath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh on Wednesday asserted that India advocates a free, open and inclusive Indo-Pacific region and calls for peaceful resolution of disputes. "The ongoing ASEAN-China negotiations on the code of conduct in the South China Sea should be fully consistent with international law, in particular the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea and should not prejudice the legitimate rights and interests of nations that are not party to these discussions," Singh said.

He was speaking at the 9th ASEAN Defence Ministers' Meeting Plus in Siem Reap, Cambodia. This year also marks the 30th anniversary of India-ASEAN relations.

Singh also called for urgent and resolute global efforts to counter transnational and cross-border terrorism. He pointed out that the global security environment has transformed fundamentally over the last few decades, with terrorist groups creating interlinkages across continents backed by new-age technologies to propagate ideologies, transfer money and recruit supporters.

Karnataka leaders join battle for Gujarat

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

POLITICAL parties are bringing in their biggest leaders to the Gujarat battlefront. The Congress has deployed two mega leaders from Karnataka, AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge and AICC General Secretary BK Hariprasad, who was in charge of Gujarat for over four years, among its star campaigners.

The ruling BJP, too, has brought in heavyweights from Karnataka, with National General Secretary (Org) B L Santhosh and General Secretary CT Ravi. He said the BJP is confident of victory, "We will win more than our previous record of 122 seats, and 27 years of incumbency does not trouble us."

The Congress is fighting hard to regain power in Gujarat after 27 years. Disagreeing with BJP leaders, Hariprasad said, "We are not seeing any wave like in 2002 when Godhra happened, 2007 (Asmita) and 2012, when then CM Narendra Modi was entering national politics."

On familiarity with the place and people, Hariprasad said he understands Gujarati language and politics, and knows all the candidates. His role involves focussing on poll management than campaigning. He claimed there is a strong incumbency factor at work. The Congress has drawn up a busy schedule, and Hariprasad is hopping between meetings and rallies, with has drawn up programmes of Sonia, Rahul and Priyanka Gandhi.

There is a battle for the influential Patel vote -- while the BJP's refrain has been that the Congress was unfair to Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Congress is countering it with BJP removing Keshubhai Patel and bringing in second-line leaders to counter influential Patel leaders. The Congress is also highlighting the number of sitting BJP MLAs who are to be dropped.

Asked if the Congress will be utilising elected members from Karnataka in Gujarat, Hariprasad said the party has a system of utilising services of leaders from adjoining states, like Rajasthan and Maharashtra, as language could be an issue.

This is similar to the BJP strategy, with leaders from Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra being given election responsibilities. Ravi, who incidentally, prefers to converse in Hindi and English in Gujarat, said Santhosh keeps dropping in from Delhi as and when necessary.

Sensing an opportunity in Gujarat, Aam Aadmi Party, Karnataka unit, too is sending some of its cadres to campaign there. AAP state president Prithvi Reddy said, "About 30 handpicked leaders from across the districts of Karnataka will be going to Gujarat to campaign."

Delegates from Central Asian countries dance to Bollywood songs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Department of Youth Affairs is hosting the100 member youth delegation from Central Asian countries to India as part of one-of-its-kind international youth exchange programme. Union Minister for Youth Affairs & Sports Anurag Singh Thakur hosted a dinner in the honour of the Youth Delegation on Tuesday and interacted with the youth from Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan. The delegation also showcased various performances on Bollywood songs.

Youth Affairs Secretary Meeta R Lochan and other officials of the ministry were also present, the statement said. The Union Minister said that this is one of its kind of International Youth Exchange Programmes having delegates from four Central Asian Countries together, which will go a long way in fostering goodwill and healthy relations. Thakur appreciated the performance of delegates and said that we can clearly see how big an impact Indian cinema has on Central Asia. "It shows that we may be in different regions of the world but we have many things common. Youth are the most important stake holders of a country", he added.

The first India-Central Asia Summit was hosted by PM of India in a virtual format on January 27. The Summit came at an opportune time coinciding with the 30th anniversary of the establishment of diplomatic relations between India and Central Asian countries. The Leaders of Central Asian countries congratulated the Prime Minister on 75 years of India's Independence. Recalling the centuries-old close civilizational, cultural, trade and people-to-people linkages between India and Central Asian countries, the leaders looked forward to building a long term, comprehensive, and enduring India-Central Asia partnership based on mutual trust, understanding and friendship.

Stents in essential medicines list, to get cheaper

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Union health ministry has notified the inclusion of coronary stents in the National List of Essential Medicines (NLEM) 2022, making these life-saving devices more affordable. The decision to retain coronary stents in the list was taken following recommendations of the Standing National Committee on Medicines (SNCM), which based its opinion on the views of subject experts who were invited from across the country, Dr Y K Gupta, Vice Chair National Standing Committee on Medicine and Healthcare Products, told TNIE.

"The committee recommended it, and the ministry agreed to include it in the list," Gupta added. On November 6, the SNCM submitted its recommendation to retain coronary stents in the NLEM, 2022 in two categories - Bare Metal Stents (BMS) and Drug Eluting Stents (DES), which include metallic DES and bioresorbable vascular scaffold (VBS)/biodegradable stents. Now, both BMS and DES will come the under price control, thus allowing the NPPA the flexibility to further cap stent prices which have already been slashed significantly in the past. It was notified as a 'drug' under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act 1940 and was thus included in the NLEM.

"When any drug is in the national list of essential medicines, the mandate is the product will become available at an affordable cost, is of quality and is accessible, thus helping reduce out-of-pocket expenditure," Gupta said. The list was last revised in 2015. It includes medicines that treat prevalent diseases such as fever, infections, heart diseases, hypertension, kidney dysfunction, tuberculosis, diabetes, skin diseases and blood disorders, and cancer. NPPA slashed the costs of coronary stents as soon as the device was included in the list. Despite pressure, the government reduced the price of DES, initially available for over Rs 1 lakh, to around Rs 27,000 and is expecting to go down further.

The list, which Union Health Minister Dr Mansukh Mandaviya announced on September 13, included 384 drugs, of which 34 new drugs were added. These had cancer, cardiovascular diseases and other critical ailments. The list dropped 26 different medicines. After the revision, 384 drugs for 27 therapeutic categories are now in the list of essential medicines. The popular antacid Ranitidine has been taken off the list because of concerns that it causes cancer.

The other 25 drugs like Sucralfate, Atenolol and Methyldopa have also been removed as cost effective and better options for these medicines are now available. According to the World Health Organisation (WHO), cardiovascular diseases (CVDs) are the leading cause of death globally. An estimated 17.9 million people died from CVDs in 2019, representing 32 per cent of all global deaths. Of these deaths, 85 per cent were due to heart attack and stroke.

When any drug is in the NLEM, the mandate is the product will be available at an affordable cost, is of quality and is accessible, thus helping reduce out-of-pocket expenditure

Congress leaders shortchanged by own party in Guj

They say they recieved less amount than what they had signed on for poll expense

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

A 'fund-starved' Congress in Gujarat is facing charges of shortchanging by its leaders. Gujarat Congress leaders are complaining that they have been given less by party leaders than what has been sent by the high command for meeting election expenses. They also allege that they have signed on a receipt showing a bigger amount than what they have received.

Former Surat Corporation leader Praful Togadia, a Congress candidate from Varachha seat, which is dominated by the Patidars in Surat, told TNIE that the money given to him by the party on Tuesday for election expenses was Rs 3.5 lakh less than the amount he signed on the receipt.

"Yesterday, we received information that the party has sent money to us towards meeting the election expenses. When I went to collect the money, I was given the slip (receipt) of the amount and I signed it. After reaching home, I found that I had received Rs 3.5 lakh less than what I signed on the receipt, which stated a larger amount than what I received," said Togdiya. He said a dozen candidates from Surat also had a similar experience.

"Upon inquiries, I found that some of the other party candidates also faced the same problem – they received 10-20% less money than the amount they had signed on," Togdiya said.

Surat City Congress chief Hasmukh Desai acknowledged that the candidates have received less money than the amount for which they had signed. "I have informed the high command about this, and I am checking in my own way as to what has gone wrong. If the need arises, I will write to the High Command," said Desai.

Some party candidates are also complaining that only a few days ahead of the elections, they are yet to receive the money from the party for elections.

In 2017, South Gujarat, of which Surat is key district, played a big role in keeping BJP in power. This time, anti-incumbency and AAP have stopped BJP from making experiments in candidate selection. BJP swept 2020 local body polls in Surat-Tapi. Surat with nearly a dozen-and-a-half Assembly seats symbolises BJP's prestige. Here's a look at some of Surat's constituencies:

Importance of SURAT IN GUJARAT POLITICS

1. OLPAD:
BJP: Mukesh Patel Congress: Darshan Nayak, AAP: Dharmik Malviya
Surprise factor: The Patidar-dominated seat is held by BJP for two decades. AAP has fielded Patidar quota movement leader, which could affect the outcome

2. KAMREJ:
BJP: Prafulla Panseria, Congress: Nilesh Kumbhani, AAP: Ram Dhaduk
Surprise factor: AAP's presence could change the situation in Patidar-dominated seat, though Congress has fielded Patidar agitation leader Nilesh Kumbhani

3. KATARGAM
BJP: Vinu Moradia, Congress: Kalpesh Variya, AAP: Gopal Italiya, Surprise factor: Patidars and OBCs may force the BJP on the defensive

4. VARACHHA
BJP: Kumar Kanani, Congress: Praful Togadia, AAP: Alpesh Kathiriya,
Surprise factor: In Patidar-dominated seat, AAP won all municipal wards in 2021. AAP's Alpesh Kathiriya of Patidar Anamat Andolan Samiti holds may hold the key

5. KARANJ (SMALLEST IN THE STATE)
BJP: Praveen Ghoghari, Congress: Bharti Patel, AAP: Manoj Sourathiya
Surprise factor: Besides Patidars, OBC voters are important with an impressive number of Hindi-speaking voters. Small victory margin expected.

6. SURAT EAST
BJP: Arvind Rana, Congress: Aslam Cycle Wala
AAP's Kanchan Jariwala withdrew after a lot of drama
Surprise factor: Owaisi's AIMIM may harm Congress

7. MAJURA
BJP: Harsh Sanghvi, Congress: Balwant Jain, AAP: PVS Sharma
Surprise factor: BJP had won the seat with the biggest margin. Congress struggled to find a suitable candidate. AAP has BJP turncoat Sharma.

8. SURAT WEST
BJP: Purnesh Modi, Congress: Sanjay Patwa, AAP: Moxesh Sanghvi
Surprise factor: It is a BJP stronghold. However, BJP had stripped Purnesh of road and building portfolios ahead of the polls. This time BJP could be on the defensive.

9. SURAT-NORTH
BJP: Kanti Balar, Congress: Ashok Patel, AAP: Mahendra Navadiya
Surprise factor: The contest will be interesting on this seat which is dominated by Patidar voters and original Surti voters. The inclination of Patidars is visible towards AAP.

10. LIMBAYAT
BJP: Sangeeta Patil, Congress: Gopalbhai Devidas Patil, AAP: Pankaj Tayde
Surprise factor: BJP's Patil has been elected for two terms. Infighting in Congress and AAP's influence is limited

11. CHORYASI
BJP: Sandeep Desai, Congress: Koli Patel Kanti Bhai, AAP: Prakash Contractor
Surprise factor: The constituency has the largest number of voters. This seat is dominated by the Koli community. However, north Indians are equally dominant, though they are divided.

12. UDHNA
BJP: Manu Patel, Congress: Dhansukh Rajput, AAP: Mahendra Patil
Surprise factor: BJP changed its candidate. The constituency has a mix of Marathi, north Indian and Patidar voters.

Guv, CM avoid each other on same stage

Governor Ramesh Bais and Chief Minister Hemant Soren were seen avoiding each other despite the fact that they were sitting beside each other on the same stage during the 22nd Foundation Day of the Jharkhand Assembly on Tuesday. They were sitting beside each other but none of them uttered a single word with the other during the two-hour programme. Apparently that row over the Election Commission letter sent to the Governor has created a gap between the two. Notably, Bais had skipped the Jharkhand statehood function on November 15 in Ranchi despite confirming his presence as the chief guest. The Governor, however, attended the function with President Droupadi Murmu and Soren in Khunti on the same day.

Bungalows for Jharkhand MLAs

For the first time since Jharkhand came into being in 2000, lawmakers are likely to get duplex bungalows before the next Assembly polls scheduled to be held in December 2024. Hyderabad-based agency KMV Projects Ltd has started the construction work of 70 bungalows after performing Bhumi Puja at HEC core capital area at Dhurwa in Ranchi on Sunday. The G+1 storied duplex structure will be built at a cost of Rs 216.05 crore on 43.50 acres near the new Assembly building. These bungalows will be ready in two years. At present, the MLAs are staying in the Russian Hostel of HEC.

To deal with cyber criminals of Jamtara, Department of Higher and Technical Education, Jharkhand Technical University and Cyber Vidyapeeth Foundation have set a target to train one lakh cyber fighters during the next 5 years. Online 'Cyber Vidyapeeth' has been started with an objective to develop Jharkhand as a cyber defence corridor. A workshop to share the action plan regarding cyber security was organised at Jharkhand Technical University and announced that the cyber fighters would be the most important part of the corridor.

Oppn unity at work? Aaditya meets Tejashwi, Nitish in Patna

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

IN yet another push to the opposition unity ahead of 2024 Lok Sabha election, Shiv Sena (Uddhav Balasaheb Thackeray) leader and former Maharashtra minister Aaditya Thackeray on Wednesday met Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar and his deputy Tejashwi Yadav in Patna.

Thackeray was accompanied by Rajya Sabha MPs Anil Desai, Priyanka Chaturvedi and other leaders of the party.

After the meeting, Tejashwi said he had also planned to visit Mumbai but it could not happen due to his busy schedule.

"Everybody has witnessed what happened in Maharashtra. We have wiped out the BJP in Bihar through our collective efforts. We are working with the sole agenda of maintaining peace in the country," he said. He said that everybody should be taken on board for the development of the country.

On the other hand, Thackeray said, "I used to talk to Tejashwi Ji when the MVA government was in power. We could not meet due to Covid-19 pandemic. Tejashwi Ji is doing good work."

"Nitish Ji's government is performing well in Bihar. If everyone who is willing to work for the constitution, development, industry, employment and development in the country and if they keep holding discussions, they can do something good in the country," he remarked.

"We are certain that this friendship will last for long, it is not necessary that we discuss politics every time," he added.

Thackeray had also participated in Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra in Maharashtra.

Meanwhile, former Bihar deputy chief minister and BJP MP Sushil Kumar Modi alleged that Thakceray had met Nitish and Tejashwi to ensure that people of Bihar living in the city voted in favour of Shiv Sena (Uddhav) in BMC elections but it would not make any impact.

Unhappy with seating arrangement, Suvendu skips guv's swearing-in

PRONAB MANDAL @ Kolkata

MERCURY in Bengal politics soared up on the day of newly appointed governor C V Ananda Bose's swearing in ceremony on Wednesday as Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari skipped the event over sitting arrangement. Adhikari alleged that he was given a seat beside two MLAs who elected on BJP's ticket in the 2021 Assembly elections but defected to the ruling Trinamool Congress.

"The sitting arrangement made by the Information and Cultural Affairs department of the state government was a reflection of the ruling party's political revenge game. Two MLAs, Krishna Kalyani and Biswajit Das, were elected as BJP candidates and shifted their allegiance to the TMC. I skipped the swearing protesting against my sitting arrangement," said Adhikari.

Describing the sitting arrangement as "uncultured conduct", Adhikari tweeted, "The Information & Cultural Affairs Dept; WB Govt had made the arrangements of the oath taking ceremony. Sitting arrangements as per the Minister in Charge @MamataOfficial's whim."

Adhikari also alleged that the BJP MP Sukanta Majumdar, who is the state president of the saffron camp, was given a seat behind the TMC MPs.

Hitting out at Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee, Adhikari said, "She cannot forget her defeat in Nandigram by me. She had to get elected from a seat in Kolkata to continue as the chief minister."

TMC spokesperson Kunal Ghosh described Adhikari's decision to skip the swearing in event as an example of "uncultured political" conduct.

Shortly after assuming office, Bose received the first letter of complaint from state Congress president Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury accusing the ruling TMC of misusing administrative power.

In MP, Shivraj's tribal yatra to counter Rahul's Bharat Jodo

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

It was a battle of yatras in the tribal-dominated Nimar region of Madhya Pradesh on Wednesday.

A few hours after Rahul Gandhi's Bharat Jodo Yatra entered MP through the southwestern district of Burhanpur early in the morning, the ruling BJP rolled out its Janjatiya Gaurav Yatra from adjoining Khandwa district's Baroda Ahir village, the birthplace of tribal icon Tantya Bheel.

Rahul's yatra was slated to travel to Tantya's village a day later, but the BJP not only started the tribal-centric yatra from the village a day before it but also held a programme attended by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan. The CM rambled on about the positives of the recently implemented provisions of the Panchayats (Extension to the Scheduled Areas --PESA) Act before the tribals.

The BJP's Janjatiya Gaurav Yatra (Tribal Pride Yatra) will conclude on December 4 at Patalpani in Indore district, the place where Tantya Bheel attained martyrdom fighting against the imperial British. The same day, Rahul Gandhi's yatra will enter Rajasthan after traversing through six districts of southwest and west MP.

While denying that the BJP yatra was planned to counter Rahul's yatra, BJP MLA from Pandhana seat Ram Dangore said, "Unlike the Congress, we don't embark on yatras keeping the polls in mind. Our yatra was planned well in advance." However, sources in Khandwa district said the CM's event was added to the BJP yatra later.

Addressing a gathering in his first public meeting during the MP yatra, Rahul Gandhi recalled how despite being elected to power, the Congress government was dethroned in MP in March 2020 through corrupt means.

"We wanted to raise our voices on three farm laws, demonetization and plight of farmers, youth and labourers. We also wanted to raise our voices on the flawed GST. But whenever we raised our voice in Parliament, our mike was switched off," said Rahul.

"Even the Press (media) doesn't take the voice of opposition parties to people, owing to the pressure of being remote-controlled. The judiciary too is under pressure," said the Congress leader.

Assam cops could have fired fewer shots: CM

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

Security personnel stand guard near a forest office, a day after it was vandalised and burnt down by miscreants at Assam-Meghalaya border area | PTI

ASSAM Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Wednesday said the Assam Police could have fired fewer shots than they did during their confrontation with villagers from Meghalaya on Tuesday.

"I believe that the Assam Police did not have to fire that many shots. I felt it was a little unprovoked firing and the police could have controlled themselves," Sarma told journalists in New Delhi. His Meghalaya counterpart Conrad K Sangma's had called it "unprovoked firing". The incident, which occurred on the border of Assam's West Karbi Anglong district and Meghalaya's West Jaintia Hill district, left five Meghalaya villagers and an Assam forest guard dead. Stating that the two state governments are not viewing the incident as a battle of prestige, Sarma said that he had spoken with Sangma 3-4 times since Tuesday.

He said it was not a border dispute, but a clash between Meghalaya residents and the forest guards of Assam.

"The villagers (from Meghalaya) were angry when the forest guards from Assam intercepted a timber-laden vehicle and took into custody three persons. When the Assam Police went to bring the vehicle, the villagers confronted the personnel," Sarma said, adding that the state government favours a probe by the Central Bureau of Investigation or the National Investigation Agency. The Meghalaya government has also called for an investigation by either of these agencies.

Sangma on Wednesday visited the houses of the deceased and offered ex gratia of Rs 5 lakh to each family. "We are all angry after what happened yesterday but violence cannot be the solution. We will ensure that the border issue, which is the crux of all tensions building up, is resolved at the earliest," Sangma said.

A delegation of Meghalaya ministers will visit Delhi on Thursday and apprise Union Home Minister Amit Shah of the incident. The team will also meet the members of the National Human Rights Commission and submit a report on the incident.

Meanwhile, the region saw some stray incidents of attacks on vehicles. An SUV, bearing an Assam registration number, was torched by some miscreants in Shillong on Tuesday evening. Stones were allegedly also pelted at Assam vehicles. Hundreds of tourists from Assam are stranded in Meghalaya. The Assam Police is also not allowing the vehicles of the state to travel to Shillong.

Ex gratia of ` 5 lakh

The incident, which occurred on the border of Assam's West Karbi Anglong district and Meghalaya's West Jaintia Hill district, left five Meghalaya villagers and an Assam forest guard dead. Sangma on Wednesday visited the houses of the deceased and offered ex gratia of ₹5 lakh to each family.

MODEL CODE CASE: UP COURT DECLARES BJP MP ABSCONDER

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

Arun Kumar Sagar

A district court in Uttar Pradesh's Shahjahanpur on Wednesday declared BJP parliamentarian Arun Sagar an absconder following no-shows in court in connection with a case of violation of model code of conduct during the last Lok Sabha polls in 2019.

Sagar is accused of getting a wall of Shahjahanpur painted without seeking the administration's permission. According to Nilima Saxena, special public prosecutor of the Shahjahanpur MP/MLA court, Sagar had used campaign material without permission of the concerned officials in the 2019 polls.

He was repeatedly summoned to appear in court but he failed to turn up.

During the 2019 general elections, the then SDM (Sadar)/ Assistant Returning Officer Ved Sigh Chauhan was taking a round of Dadraul, a Vidhan Sabha segment, when he spotted campaign material of Sagar in Rasoolpur village.

When Chauhan came to know that the campaign material was transported without prior permission, he lodged a complaint in the Kant police station.

While phone calls to Sagar drew no response, BJP leader Dr Chandra Mohan said, "This often happens during elections. I won't say much about it since the matter is sub-judice. However, law will take it own course and the MP concerned would abide by it."

EUROPEAN UNION CALLS RUSSIA A STATE SPONSOR OF TERRORISM

Massive blackouts in Ukraine, Moldova blamed on Russian attacks

STRASBOURG/CHISINAU

THE European Parliament on Wednesday recognised Russia as a "state sponsor of terrorism", accusing its forces of carrying out atrocities during its war on Ukraine.

The move by the European legislators is a symbolic political step with no legal consequences, but MEPs urged the governments of the 27-nation EU to follow their lead.

"The deliberate attacks and atrocities carried out by the Russian Federation against the civilian population of Ukraine, the destruction of civilian infrastructure and other serious violations of human rights and international humanitarian law amount to acts of terror," a resolution approved by EU lawmakers said.

The parliament said it "recognises Russia as a state sponsor of terrorism and as a state which uses means of terrorism".

Kyiv has been calling on the international community to declare Russia a "terrorist state" over its invasion of the country, and the Strasbourg parliament's decision will likely anger Moscow.

Ukraine's President Volodymyr Zelensky hailed the vote.

"Russia must be isolated at all levels and held accountable in order to end its long-standing policy of terrorism in Ukraine and across the globe," he said in a social media post.

The resolution, backed by 494 MEPs and opposed by 58, calls on Brussels to put in place the "legal framework" to take the move and consider adding Russia.

"We called a spade a spade. Russia is not only a state sponsoring terrorism, but the state, which is using means of terrorism," said Lithuanian MEP Andrius Kubilius, who spearheaded the push for the resolution. "The recognition of this fact by the European Parliament sends a clear political signal. Europeans do not want to remain passive, when their big neighbour violates all humanitarian ... standards."

Meanwhile, Moldova said Wednesday that it was suffering from widespread blackouts that were caused by a fresh Russian strikes on energy infrastructure in neighbouring Ukraine. Agencies

Newborn dead in attack on hospital in Zaporizhzhia

KYIV

RUSSIAN strikes killed a newborn baby at a maternity ward in southern Ukraine and targeted energy infrastructure in the capital Kyiv on Wednesday.

Ukrainian emergency services said the Russian rockets smashed into a hospital in Vilniansk, a town in the southern Zaporizhzhia region, that houses Europe's largest nuclear power plant under Russian control.

President Volodymyr Zelensky denounced the strikes as Russian "terror and murder". Emergency service workers were shown in official footage wearing protective helmets with head lamps attached trying to dig out a man trapped waist-deep from rubble.

"The two-storey building of the maternity ward was destroyed," the emergency services said in a statement, adding that there was a woman, baby and doctor in the building at the time of the attack.

"The baby... died. The woman and doctor were rescued from the rubble," they added. Nobody else was trapped under the debris.

"Grief fills our hearts," said Oleksandr Starukh, the head of the Zaporizhzhia region

The strikes are only the latest to hit Ukrainian medical facilities since Russia invaded on February 24.

Vilniansk, where the maternity hospital is located, is 45 kilometres from the front line and last week was targeted in Russian strikes that killed 10 people. AFP

Efforts on to identify car bombing suspect: Police

Police said on Wednesday they were trying to identify the suspect in a bombing of police housing that killed one officer and wounded 45 other people in a part of southern Thailand troubled by a Muslim separatist insurgency. Police said the suspect drove a black pickup truck into the compound then walked out after parking the vehicle. He was dressed to look like a plain clothes officer in the images captured by a surveillance camera. The wounded victims were mostly civilians, including three children. National Police Chief Gen. Damrongsak Kittiprapas said forensic experts believe the explosive device was fashioned from a 50 kilogram cooking gas cylinder. The bombing was condemned by Human Rights Watch, which said "it appeared aimed at causing the greatest possible loss of civilian life," said Elaine Pearson, Asia director at Human Rights Watch

Economic growth to slow in 2023, warns trade ministry

Singapore warned on Wednesday that economic growth could slow to a trickle next year owing to weakness in key export markets including the United States, Europe and China, as rising interest rates and the Ukraine war cause headwinds. The trade ministry said it expected growth to come in at 3.5% this year — inside its forecasts for 3-4% — but then drop sharply in 2023 to just 0.5-2.5% as weaker global demand offsets a strong recovery in air travel after the pandemic.

King holds consulations to end political deadlock

Malaysia's king met with lawmakers on Wednesday and will next consult other royal families in a continuing search for a prime minister after inconclusive general elections that saw the rise of Islamists sparked anxieties in the multiracial nation. The monarch on Wednesday met leaders from the third largest bloc, the alliance led by the United Malays National Organization, as well as another influential bloc from Borneo island. UMNO President Ahmad Zahid Hamidi said that the king requested his National Front to be part of a unity government during the meeting. He said the alliance's decision-making body and its 30 lawmakers who won in the polls will hold more talks Wednesday evening. The palace said Sultan Abdullah will meet on Thursday with royal families from nine states to consult them on the deadlock

Next UK polls to be a de facto referendum, says Scottish leader

LONDON

BRITAIN'S highest court on Wednesday rejected a bid by the devolved Scottish government in Edinburgh to hold a new referendum on independence without London's consent.

The unanimous ruling by the Supreme Court torpedoed the Scottish nationalist government's push to hold a second plebiscite next year.

First Minister Nicola Sturgeon, who leads the Scottish National Party (SNP), said she respected the ruling, but accused Westminster of showing "contempt" for Scotland's democratic will.

"This ruling confirms that the notion of the UK as a voluntary partnership of nations, if it ever was a reality, is no longer a reality," she told a news conference.

Her government will now look to use the next UK general election due by early 2025 as a "de facto referendum" on separating after more than 300 years.

That means a strong performance by pro-independence parties — like the SNP, Alba, or the Scottish Greens —will be taken as clear evidence to support a case for independence

"We must and we will find another democratic, lawful and constitutional means by which the Scottish people can express their will. In my view, that can only be an election," she added. Outside the court, David Simpson, 70, who first voted for the SNP in 1970, said he was still hopeful of achieving independence in the future.

"This is not the end of the road," he said. "There is nothing impossible."

In parliament, UK Prime Minister Rishi Sunak called the ruling "clear and definitive", adding: "Now is the time for politicians to work together, and that is what this government will do."

The British government, which oversees constitutional affairs for the whole country, has repeatedly refused to give Edinburgh the power to hold a referendum.

It considers that the last one — in 2014, when 55% of Scots rejected independence — settled the question for a generation. But Sturgeon and her party say there is now an "indisputable mandate" for another independence referendum, particularly in light of the UK's departure from the European Union. Agencies

Walmart employee kills six in latest US mass shooting

WASHINGTON

A Walmart manager opened fire on fellow employees in the break room of a Virginia store, killing six people, police and a witness said on Wednesday.

Four other people remained hospitalised in unknown condition following the Tuesday night rampage in the Walmart in Chesapeake, Virginia, police chief Mark Solesky said.

Solesky said the gunman was believed to have died of a "self-inflicted gunshot wound," and that the motive behind the latest attack in America's gun violence crisis was not immediately known.

US media reported that the gunman opened fire in a room where employees take meal breaks but the police chief said he could not confirm this. In the hours afterwards, news footage showed a major police presence around the Walmart, which is located about 240 kilometres southeast of the US capital Washington.

Walmart, the largest retailer in the United States, issued a statement saying, "We are shocked at this tragic event." The company added that it was "praying for those impacted, the community and our associates. We're working closely with law enforcement, and we are focused on supporting our associates." Agencies

Taliban lash 12 people before stadium crowd

Islamabad: The Taliban lashed three women and nine men in front of hundreds of spectators in a sports stadium on Wednesday. The office of governor of Logar province, south of Kabul, invited "honourable scholars, mujahideen, elders, tribal leaders and local people" to the stadium in the town of Pul Alam in Logar. The invitations for the 9.00 a.m. event were extended via social media. Those being punished received between 21 and 39 lashes each, after being convicted in a local court of theft and adultery, said an official in governor's office.

Ranil rules out early election, will use forces to stop protests

COLOMBO

SRI Lankan President Ranil Wickremesinghe on Wednesday rejected the opposition's demand for early parliamentary elections and vowed to use the military to crush any future anti-government protests aimed at regime change.

"I will not dissolve parliament early until the economic crisis can be resolved," he said while speaking in Parliament. Wickremesinghe has a mandate to serve out the rest of ex-President Gotabaya Rajapaksa's term, which ends in November 2024. However, the opposition parties are demanding early parliamentary elections, claiming that Wickremesinghe's government lacks electoral credibility. The next presidential election is scheduled to be held in 2024.

On Wednesday, Wickremesinghe said that even if the protesters call him a 'dictator' they would need to obtain police permission to stage street protests.

"They can call me a dictator but must obtain police permission to stage street protests and cause road traffic. There is a plan to stage another Aragalaya (mass public protest) to oust the government. I will not allow that. I will put the military and use emergency laws to stop them if they try it again," Wickremesinghe said.

Wickremesinghe faced criticism for ordering the crackdown and detaining at least two protesters under the draconian Prevention of Terrorism Act. He said a radical political party named Frontline Socialist Party was behind in organising street protests to achieve their political aims. PTI

Nepal elections: Prime Minister Deuba wins by huge margin, party takes lead

KATHMANDU

NEPAL Prime Minister Sher Bahadur Deuba was elected on Wednesday with a huge margin of votes for the House of Representatives for the seventh consecutive time, with his ruling Nepali Congress party leading in the election tally by winning 13 seats so far.

Elections to the House of Representatives (HoR) and seven provincial assemblies were held on Sunday. The counting of votes started on Monday.

Deuba secured 25,534 votes against his nearest rival Sagar Dhakal, an independent candidate in the Dadeldhura constituency in far west Nepal. Dhakal received just 1,302 votes. Deuba has never lost any parliamentary election in the five decades of his political career.

Sher Bahadur Deuba

The 77-year-old Nepali Congress president Deuba is currently holding the post of Prime Minister for the fifth term.The ruling Nepali Congress has so far bagged 13 seats in the House of Representatives (HoR) while it is leading in 54 other constituencies.

Its ally parties — CPN-Maoist and CPN-Unified Socialist, Lokatantraik Samajwadi Party — are leading in 17, 7 and 3 seats respectively. The CPN-UML led by former prime minister K P Oli has so far bagged three seats and is leading in 45 constituencies. Interestingly, newly-formed Rastriya Swotantra Party (RSP) has emerged as the third-largest party.

The party has become the choice of young voters, who have been disillusioned by the ill performance and corrupt politicians.

DRONE ATTACK

Turkish strike hits Russian base in northeast Syria

QAMISHLI

A Turkish strike hit a Kurdish position inside a Russian base in Syria on Wednesday killing a fighter, a Kurdish official said, as Turkey pressed an air offensive against Kurdish targets in Syria and Iraq.

The drone strike also wounded three fighters of the Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces, a key ally of the US-led coalition battling the Islamic State group in the region, SDF official Farhad Shami said.

Britain-based war monitor the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said a Russian soldier was also wounded in the strike, which came a day after a similar deadly strike on another base in northeastern Syria used by the US-led coalition.

There was no immediate confirmation from Moscow. Russia's main bases lie in the northwest but since 2019 it has also had troops in northeastern Syria acting as a buffer between Turkish and Kurdish forces.

Turkish Defence Minister Hulusi Akar said on Wednesday that Turkish forces had hit nearly 500 Kurdish targets across Iraq and Syria since Sunday as part of Operation Claw-Sword, an offensive Ankara says it launched in retaliation for a deadly bombing in Istanbul earlier this month.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan has blamed the November 13 bombing on the outlawed Kurdistan Workers' Party (PKK), which operates rear-bases in northern Iraq. AFP

Quake survivors starving as rains delay relief

CIANJUR

SURVIVORS of an Indonesian earthquake that killed at least 271 people, many of them children, appealed for food and water on Wednesday as heavy rain and aftershocks hampered rescue efforts among the rubble of devastated villages.

"We are starving, thirsty and cold without adequate tents and clothes, with no access to clean water," one of the survivours was quoted as saying by the ABC News.

The calls for help came as authorities warned that debris from landslides caused by the strong quake near the town of Cianjur in West Java needed to be cleared as rains forecast for the coming weeks threatened a second disaster.

Two days after the quake flattened their homes, residents were still trying to retrieve priceless belongings including family photos, religious books and marriage certificates.

Women cook beside the rubble of a collapsed house in Cugenang | AFP

"Although some supplies have arrived, it is not enough. We got rice, instant noodles, mineral water but it's not enough," Mustafa, a 23-year-old resident of Gasol village, told AFP. Mustafa had just dug through the rubble of an elderly neighbour's house at her request, appearing from the destroyed facade carrying a pile of clothes before returning to collect rice, a gas stove, canisters and frying pans. In Talaga village, some residents put signs on the windows of damaged houses and the front of tents that read "We need help!" In the streets, at least three people held up cardboard boxes, asking for donations. Evacuees crammed under flimsy tents, unable to move inside from the rain in case buildings collapse from an aftershock.

A shallow 3.9-magnitude aftershock sent panicked evacuees running from shelters on Wednesday, according to an AFP reporter at the scene. Authorities had recorded 171 aftershocks as of Wednesday evening. More than 61,000 people have been displaced by the quake, the national disaster mitigation agency (BNPB) said.

Around a third of those found dead so far are believed to be children, BNPB chief Suharyanto, who like many Indonesians goes by one name, told a press conference, without providing an exact figure.

The government has dispatched tents and other supplies to Cianjur for the displaced, and the military deployed 12,000 personnel on Wednesday, officials said.

Heavy rain was hampering those efforts in about a dozen villages where more than 22,000 houses had been destroyed.

India aims to conclude UK FTA by March '23

Free trade agreement with Canada, Gulf Cooperation Council countries could be finalised by the end of this year

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

INDIA is in advanced talks with the UK for the free trade agreement (FTA);which couldn't meet the Diwali deadline due to political instability, economic turmoil and the death of Queen Elizabeth II, according to a top government source.

The Centre may conclude the trade pact by March 31 next year. "We are waiting to get into a kind of agreement that provides win-win situation for both the countries. The UK FTA is likely to conclude this fiscal year, though we have not set any deadline for it," the source said. Besides the UK FTA, talks with Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries will also resume from this week. As per sources, discussions are on with Canada and European Union also for FTAs.

"Currently, we are getting the UK FTA fast-tracked. Once this FTA is done then we can hope FTA with Canada and GCC countries to finalise by the year-end," the source further stated. Meanwhile, as per sources, the UK authorities are not rushing to seal the trade deal as they don't want to sacrifice quality for pace. India had total trade of $17.5 billion with the UK in 2021-22. India's exports to the UK in 2021-22 were worth $10.5 billion, while imports from the country were at $7 billion. "It seems difficult this year, as there are 27 countries in the European Union (EU) with big markets like France, Italy and Germany, among others. We will take a considerable time to arrive at a fair deal," the source further stated. "Also, if things get complicated with the UK, then we will not have enough bandwidth to complete other FTAs this year. So the success of the other FTAs depends upon the completion of UK FTA," he added.

In addition, commerce minister Piyush Goyal on Tuesday while replying to TNIE question on global slowdown said, in the short run, the trade deal with the other countries may get impacted but in the long haul, these pacts will benefit the country.

"The global slowdown may impact the FTA for few months or few years but these trade deals are meant for long run. And these agreements will only benefit India in the long term," said Goyal.

Air India expands operations in US and Europe

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

WITH an aim to capture 30% traffic in the international market (to and from India) over the next five years, Tata Group-run Air India (AI) has launched new flights connecting Mumbai with New York, Paris and Frankfurt, and announced the resumption of non-stop flights connecting Delhi with Copenhagen, Milan and Vienna.

AI will become the only airline to fly non-stop between India and these international destinations.

This expansion comes as the airline continues to make progress in augmenting its fleet with newly leased aircraft, and the return of existing aircraft to active service. The airline had recently said it plans to triple its fleet in the next five years. The new Mumbai-New York service will operate daily to John F Kennedy International Airport using B777-200LR aircraft and will commence on February 14, 2023. It will complement Air India's existing daily service from Delhi to New York and four weekly flights to Newark Liberty airport. This takes Air India's India-US frequency to 47 non-stop flights per week. To Europe, AI will add four weekly Delhi-Milan routes starting February 1, 2023, and thrice-weekly flights on each of Delhi-Vienna and Delhi-Copenhagen, commencing from February 18 and March 1, 2023, respectively. From Mumbai, new flights are also planned to Paris (3 weekly) and Frankfurt (4 weekly) starting next quarter. All these flights will be operated by Air India's B787-8 Dreamliner aircraft. "A key element of our five-year transformation plan, Vihaan. Air India will strengthen India's global network, connecting India's major cities with more destinations. Introduction of these new non-stop flights to New York, Milan, Vienna, Copenhagen, Paris and Frankfurt is another step in that journey, which will accelerate as our aircraft fleet expands," said Air India CEO and MD Campbell Wilson.

Not only Air India but the country's largest carrier IndiGo is also trying to expand its international presence. The low-cost carrier on Wednesday announced the launch of connecting flights via Turkey to Portugal and Switzerland through its codeshare partnership with Turkish Airlines.

Ather Energy plans third facility; may venture into electric-motorcycles

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

WITH the rising demand for electric scooters, Hero MotoCorp-backed Ather Energy is exploring location options for its third facility in India, and it is likely to announce the same by the end of this fiscal.

The EV brand will also get into the electric motorcycle segment. Though the company didn't give any timeline for the same, Ather Energy co-founder and chief technology officer Swapnil Jain said, "Our focus is heavily on two-wheelers and it is difficult to give a timeline for the motorbike. It is in the concept and discussion stage."

Apart from expanding in its current location - Hosur, Ather Energy, the maker of 450X and 450 Plus e-scooters, will also look for other options for its third facility. "We have not narrowed down on any particular location," Jain said.

However, it is said that talks are on with state governments (Karnataka and Telangana) to set up its third plant.

Currently, it has two facilities that produce vehicles and batteries in Tamil Nadu.

Ather Energy, which formally inaugurated its second plant on Wednesday in Hosur, Tamil Nadu, is also ready to tie-up with other companies for cell manufacturing in India. Except cells, other components are manufactured in the country, as EV cells are very capital intensive. Many EV brands import battery cells from either China or South Korea.

The EV brand is also aiming to close the fiscal year with a revenue run rate of ₹2,400 crore.

The new facility will help the brand to expand its production capacity to 4.20 lakh units per year from its current capacity of 1.20 lakh units per annum. The company is also targeting 30% market share by the end of this fiscal. From just 5% last year, the share of e-scooters in the electric two-wheeler market has increased to 17%.

Last month, the electric scooter maker raised $50 million in a fresh funding round. Talking about investments, Ather Energy said of the total ₹650 crore investment commitment in the next five years, it has already spent about ₹320 crore so far.

In another 2-2.5 years, one in two scooters sold in the country will be electric, the start-up said, which has aggressive expansion plans. It aims to expand to 150 Experience Centers in 100 cities and install 1,400 Ather Grids by the end of this fiscal.

Telcos' ARPU improves 5% from ₹127 to ₹134 in April-June quarter

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TELECOM operators improved their monthly average revenue per user (ARPU) by 5.02%, from ₹127.17 to ₹133.55 in April-June 2022 quarter.

According to the telecom operators' performance data released by Trai on Wednesday, adjusted Gross Revenue (AGR) of telecom service providers (TSPs) also reported growth. It grew by 2.79% to ₹60,530 crore in the quarter. "Gross revenue (GR) and adjusted gross revenue (AGR) of telecom service sector for the quarter has been ₹76,408 crore and ₹60,530 crore, respectively. GR decreased by 0.01% and AGR increased by 2.79%, as compared to the previous quarter," reads the report.

The AGR is arrived at by excluding non-telecom tariffs from operators' gross revenue.

As per the report, Airtel's quarterly AGR grew 7.1% sequentially to ₹17,140.56 crore in the April-June period, Jio and Vi's AGR rose 4.14% and 2.04%, respectively, quarter-on-quarter to ₹21,515.88 crore and ₹7,356.54 crore, respectively. The report also noted that prepaid ARPU per month increased from ₹121.91 to ₹128.61 in the quarter. However, Postpaid ARPU per month decreased from ₹200.56 to ₹197.55. The licence fee increased from ₹4,712 Crore to ₹4,844 crore for the April-June 2022 quarter. The quarterly and the YoY growth rates of licence fee are 2.79% and 18.05%, respectively, in this quarter.

Job search platform Monster rebranded as foundit

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FROM a job search portal, Monster is transforming into a talent management platform called 'foundit'. Quess Corp acquired Monster Worldwide's APAC & ME business in 2018.

Ajit Isaac, non-executive Chairman of Quess Corp and foundit, told this newspapet the new product is very different from Monster. "Monster was purely a discovery-based approach and from that it moved to being a talent management platform that uses a higher quality of datasets."

foundit will offer comprehensive solutions to recruiters and personalised services to job seekers across Asia Pacific and Middle East. Monster, which raised nearly ₹137 crore in December last year, was valued at about $100 million (about ₹810 crore). "We expect this company now to become cash positive by 2024 and it has grown 70% year-on-year compared to last year. We expect to grow by that much," Isaac said.

He added that the personalisation element in the new brand is very different from what exists in the discovery-only product feature that is available. In terms of traffic and registrations, it is expected to double in 18 months.

"In terms of profitability and economics, while it will burn some cash next year, the year after that - 2024 - will be cash neutral and turning around to make a profit," he said.

As a job portal, Monster has been serving over 70 million job seekers and 10,000 customers across 18 countries.

Isaac said the lack of hiring is primarily in the IT services segment and it will take another two quarters to come back. According to him, there is a huge opportunity in the gaming space. "The changes in technology that is taking place today is very quick and a number of jobs is seeing automation where old levels of skill sets are either not required or is now being replaced by technology," he said.

Paytm share falls another 6%, wipes out ₹1.10L cr m-cap

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PAYTM shares continue to hit new lows with each passing day. After collapsing over 11% on Tuesday, shares of One 97 Communications, Paytm's parent firm, fell nearly 8% to hit a record low of ₹440.35 intraday before calling the day off at ₹450, down 6% from previous session's closing.

Its market capitalisation (m-cap) stood at ₹29,361.31 crore on Wednesday, down nearly ₹1.10 lakh crore from its IPO value of ₹1.39 lakh crore. Fresh fall in the scrip comes after a report by global brokerage firm Macquarie said Paytm is likely to face headwinds from entry of Mukesh Amabni's Jio Financial Services (JFS). As per market experts, the stock may see further selling and may hit new lows as there are abundant shares to offload following the expiry of one-year lock-in period for pre-IPO investors. Since November 14, Paytm shares have dipped about 29% during which one of its largest shareholders, SoftBank, reduced its stake by 4.5%, mopping up over 1,600 crore from the stake sale. Ravi Singal, CEO of GCL Securities, said, "Investors must wait. The stock will take time to reach bottom. It can test ₹350 levels after consolidation. It is possible to accumulate near these levels in the long term." Ravi Singh, vice-President and head of research at Share India, said Paytm share prices may continue its selling spree amid the continuous dumping of shareholdings by large funds.

Shriram Cap to be merged with transport finance biz

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

SIMPLIFYING the corporate structure, Shriram Financial Ventures (Chennai) Private Limited (SFVPL) will be the promoter and holding company of the financial services and insurance businesses of the Chennai-based conglomerate Shriram Group.

Shriram Capital Limited (SCL), the holding company of the Shriram Group and Shriram City Union Finance, to be merged with Shriram Transport Finance soon, the company said in a statement. Earlier, SFVPL was the holding company of SCL. DV Ravi, managing trustee of Shriram Ownership Trust, will be the vice-Chairman and managing director of SFVPL.

"At a Group level, we have completed a comprehensive exercise of simplifying the corporate structure and businesses under SFVPL and will now be focusing on facilitating growth in NBFC and insurance space and also evaluate emerging opportunities and new initiatives in these domains," said Ravi.

Subhasri Sriram and N S Nanda Kishore will be the joint managing directors. SFVPL is jointly owned by Shriram Ownership Trust and Sanlam Group of South Africa.

CONTINENTAL OPENS NEW ₹1K-CR R&D CAMPUS IN B'LURU

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE @ Bengaluru

GERMAN automotive technology giant Continental inaugurated a state-of-the art campus for its Technical Center India (TCI) here on Wednesday. This new sprawling facility has seen investment of Rs 1,000 crore, and currently employs 5,000 engineers, with a scope to seat 1,500 more.

The 1-million sqft campus brings together a broad range of the company's capabilities in automotive technology. It houses hi-tech software, hardware and vehicle test facilities for R&D and a bevy of training centres, with each floor equipped with multiple collaboration areas, enabling innovation.

Latha Chembrakalam, Head of TCI at Continental Automotive India, told TNIE, "This facility predominantly supports the global markets, with 5-6 per cent of our engineers working on the local market." The company currently has projects running for Europe, North America and the APAC region.

The centre is the largest campus of its kind for the company across the globe. Continental employs over 1,90,000 professionals globally, of whom 42,000 are R&D engineers.

Latha said, "We want to look at the content of work we can do here, the complexity of the topics we can handle and the innovation we can provide from this centre. Aspirationally, what we are looking at from this centre is how we make ourselves the best value location for Continental. Accordingly, our Centres of Excellence (CoEs) will help us get to the next level. There's strong support from headquarters too, to scale up India because of its talent potential."

She said, "Basically, we do have a lot of technologies that are relevant for the Indian market, but it's not affordable. We have an innovation CoE, where we are focusing on the pain areas of the Indian market and trying to develop low-cost solutions. Basically, what tech-related lessons we are learning from other markets, we are trying to deploy here, and also customising them accordingly."

The new R&D campus at Electronics City Phase II was inaugurated in the presence of IT/BT Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan.

"We have made significant investments here in the last few years, including greenfield manufacturing plants and the expansion of production lines for vehicle electronics for passenger cars and two-wheelers. Our new R&D campus represents yet another milestone in our growth," said Continental India President and Chief Executive Officer Prashanth Doreswamy.

This Public Notice is issued in view of the fact that State Bank of India has not been able to communicate / establish contact with the aforesaid Borrower(s) at his / her / their last known address as per SBI's records. Whereas the Authorised Officer of State Bank of India in exercise of powers conferred under Section 13(2) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act 2002 (SARFAESI Act) has issued Demand Notice(s) to the Borrower(s) on 02.11.2020.

As the borrower has failed to comply with the said Demand Notice(s) within the period set out therein, the Authorised Officer of SBI has taken symbolic possession on 20.01.2021 of the immovable property / Secured Asset more particularly described in the said Demand Notice(s), under Section 13(4) of the SARFAESI Act read with Rule 8 of Security Interest (Enforcement) Rules, 2002. Further, as per 7th ACMM Court Bangalore Orders dated 15.02.2022, undersigned has taken physical possession of the scheduled property on 22.07.2022 under Sec.14 of the said Act.

At the time of taking over Physical possession of the said immovable property / Secured Asset on 22.07.2022 as per 7th ACMM Court Order Crl. Mis.No: 1180/2021 dated 15.02.2022 through Court Commissioner , the undersigned as Authorised Officer of SBI has drawn up an inventory of personal belongings and household goods lying therein, copy whereof can be collected from the undersigned on any working day during office hours. Vide Bank's letter dated 08.11.2022, the borrowers were requested to vacate their personal belongings latest by 19.11.2022.

Under the circumstances, Notice is hereby given, to the said Borrower(s) to forthwith contact the undersigned at his office and arrange for immediate removal of their personal belongings / household goods lying inside the scheduled property within 7 (Seven) days from the date hereof, failing which the Authorised Officer will have no other options but to remove the personal belongings/household goods and deal with it in the manner as may be deemed fit, entirely at the Borrower(s) risk, cost and consequences, in which event, no claim will be entertained in this regard in future.

Qatar FIFA WORLD CUP FINALS 2022

Brazil's Vinicius Junior (L) and Neymar (C) will be hoping to inspire the team in the attacking department during their World Cup campaign | AFP

Brazilian carnival enters the desert

Express POST
SAMINDRA KUNTI @ DOHA

In many ways, this World Cup is a déja vu for Brazil coach Tite: he will once again encounter Serbia and Switzerland and yet again the success of the tournament of the five-time champions will hinge on how they deal with European elite opposition.

In 2016, Tite took over from Carlos Dunga and became King Midas — whatever he did and touched turned into gold. Spearheaded by Gabriel Jesus, Brazil breezed through the World Cup qualifiers, but the striker failed to rekindle the same form at the World Cup in Russia. The South Americans struggled against Switzerland. Throughout the build-up of the tournament in Russia, Brazil had struggled to break down with deep-lying defenses, but it was the quarterfinal against Belgium that came to define Tite's reign with Brazil.

In Kazan, the graveyard of the great, Brazil fell to the barnstorming Belgians in a match for the ages. Roberto Martinez's curveball — playing striker Romelu Lukaku on the right — wrecked the Brazilians. They were knocked off balance and the Seleçao's second-half response was in vain, with Thibaut Courtois's fingertips preventing extra time.

That defeat shocked Tite. He admitted that it even kept him up at night. The first Brazil coach since Claudio Coutinho in 1978 to stay on after a World Cup, Tite reinforced his midfield. In his head, he played out that quarterfinal against Belgium over and over. How could he have overcome Belgium? And so, something of the old Tite returned. At heart, perhaps, Tite is a pragmatic and defensive-minded coach. He has principles, but he won't commit to ideals, the way Marcelo Bielsa and others do.

Balance has always been a key theme in Brazilian football and is no better embodied than by Mario Zagallo. In 1958, Brazil played a 4-2-4, but Zagallo transformed that into a 4-3-3 by shuttling up and down the left flank, giving Brazil more defensive cover in midfield. That also became the formation in 1970 when Brazil triumphed for the third time in an era-defining World Cup.

Since 2018, Tite has struggled with the balance of his squad, but the defensive midfield pair of Casemiro and Fred enjoys his preference to shield the defence. He doesn't trust Lucas Paqueta's defensive skills. Neymar plays in the hole behind Richarlison and is flanked by Raphinha and Vinicius Jr. The frightening forward line is Brazil's greatest strength. They play a 2-3-5 formation when attacking and few defenses can resist such firepower. Tite even had the luxury of leaving Liverpool's Roberto Firmino at home, such is the wealth at his disposal.

More importantly, Brazil are no longer Neymar-dependent.

Vinicius power

The emergence of Vinicius Junior and other attacking talents has been a godsend for Tite. Neymar remains the lodestar of the team, the talisman who, at times, infuriates by his tendency for diving, but he is no longer the centre of gravity.

From the destitute commuter city of Sao Gonçales to Real Madrid, Vinicius' rise has been phenomenal, the latest product of the conveyor belt of Brazilian talent. It was always a gamble to cross the Atlantic at such a young age, but Vinicius has excelled in the Spanish capital, scoring the winning goal in last season's Champions League final to crown his club European champions for the 14th time.

He links up well with Neymar, something that was evident in Brazil's last friendly before the World Cup when they steamrollered Tunisia 5-1. But the significance of that win as well as Brazil's unbeaten record in the South American qualifiers is limited. Ultimately, the benchmark is defeating Europe's best teams and with the introduction of the Nations League, Brazil's opportunities to play Germany and other powerhouses from the Old Continent are non-existent. In 2019, Brazil last played European opposition, defeating the Czech Republic 3-0 in Prague.

It's been 20 years since Brazil last won the ultimate prize in football. Italy, Spain, Germany and France won the next four World Cups, a sign that the rest of the World Cup can no longer keep up with Europe. With some European teams out of shape or going through a transition, this tournament represents South America's best chance to reclaim the global crown.

Brazil: Alisson (1), Danilo (2), Thiago (3), Marquinhos (4), Sandro (6), Casemiro (5), Paqueta(7), Raphinha (11), Neymar (10), Vini Jr(20), Richarlison (9)

Serbia: Vanja (23), Milenkovic (4), Stefan (13), Pavlovic (2), Zivkovic (14), Lukic (16), Sergej (20, Kostic (17), Tadic (10), Mitrovic (9), Vlahovic (18)

MATCH POINT

Five-time champions Brazil begin favourites but should guard against complacency against Serbia, who can be tricky opponents. A look...

ATTACKING RICHES

An area of the field where Brazil are well stocked is the forward line. The likes of Neymar, Vini Jr and Raphinha can be a headful and that's even before you look at the bench to look at the likes of Antony and Gabriel Jesus.

BRAZIL'S RECORD

For a team that has periodically had blowouts against Europeans (they have been eliminated by European outfits on all occasions since 2006), the Selecao's decision to not play against more European teams is a bit baffling. In that backdrop, Serbia could well pose a challenge or two.

PACE vs STRENGTH

Serbia is one of the few countries that play with two out-and-out strikers. It helps because both of them have different profiles. If Brazil have a weakness it's in the defensive third, especially the full-backs. And Vlahovic is adept at working the channels and Mitrovic, if he starts, can use his strength to bully defenders.

STRETCH THE FIELD

Serbia are an attacking side who like to play with wing backs. The likes of Filip Kostic will keep bombing down the left hand side and it could cause some issues to Danilo. Expect Zivkovic to do the same thing on the other side with Dusan Tadic dropping into the half space on both sides of the attacking third of the pitch.

SAMURAI SPIRIT

Asian powerhouse, eight of whom ply their trade in Germany, shock World Cup royalty

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Chennai

THERE is a longstanding link between German football and Japan. The tap was first turned on by Yasuhiko Okudero, a midfielder who moved from Japan to FC Koln in the 1970s. Since then, a string of players have made the switch from Japan to the Bundesliga.

In May 2019, Bundesliga acknowledged this transfer of knowledge. The league posted a three-minute video. The video finished with the names of all the players who had swapped Japan for Germany to continue their football career. This trend has continued in the last three years or so. So, it wasn't a surprise when Japan announced their 26-man roster for the World Cup. Eight of the 26 were playing their club football in Germany (seven in the top tier and the other in the second tier). To put that into some sort of perspective, only six came from the J League (Japan's top-tier).

The crown prince is Daichi Kamada, a roving, all-action, oxygen-supplying midfielder, who plays his club for Eintracht Frankfurt. In May, he scored in the shootout to give the club a second Europa League title. He has also begun the season in stellar fashion, it was something Germany coach Hansi Flick noted during his pre-match press conference. Kamada is 'having an outstanding season', he said. He also name-checked Wataru Endo, the proverbial engine in Japan's midfield. Endo is, he said, 'one of the best midfielders in Germany, in the Bundesliga, over the last two years'.

Flick, who was hired by the German FA to breathe new life into the die Mannschaft following a disappointing run of results that marked the end of Jogi Loew's reign, also professed his love for the way Japan play the game. "I have to out myself as a bit of a fan of Japanese soccer," he said. "You have a team, players who are very well developed, technically as well as tactically. They're really, really good. And we see that quality in the Bundesliga."

At the Khalifa International Stadium on Wednesday, Japan showed what Flick said they had in their locker. In the process, the Samurai Blue engineered a sensational take down of the four-time world champions.

Germany took the lead via a penalty but Japan, who had pace to burn on the break, were not overly frazzled. As long as Germany kept missing chances at 1-0, they knew they were always in with a chance.

They had a small window but before that, they had to stop giving up those chances. That's what they did, firstly by bringing on Takehiro Tomiyasu at half-time. Secondly, they made an offensive change by bringing on left-sided attacker Kaoru Mitoma for left-back Yuto Nagatomo. Coach Hajime Moriyasu also brought on forward Takumo Asano in the same substitution window. Like Mitoma, Asano is pacy and likes a dribble. Good traits to have against a team that maintains a high-line.

The momentum had already swung Japan's way and Antonio Rudiger was struggling to contain Japan's energy. Flick hadn't helped matters as he removed goal-scorer Ilkay Gundogan. There was a noticeable hole in Germany's midfield.

Japanese touch in German leagues

Maya Yoshida (Schalke), Wataru Endo (VfB Stuttgart), Daichi Kamada (Eintracht Frankfurt), Takuma Asano (Bochum), Ritsu Doan (Freiburg), Ko Itakura (Borussia Monchengladbach), Hiroki Ito (Stuttgart) and Ao Tanaka (Fortuna Dusseldorf). This transfer of knowledge between the footballers of two countries has long been established. This was name-checked by coaches of both countries in the pre-match press conference.

TODAY'S MATCHES

SWITZERLAND vs CAMEROON

FOCUS ON CONSISTENCY

Switzerland do their own thing at big events, with a big onus on consistency. They beat Spain at the Euros and will begin this campaign with quiet confidence. Xherdan Shaqiri and a much-improved Granit Xhaka will be big keys for them to victory

ONUS ON CHOUPO-MOTING

From being a spare man at Stoke, Eric Maxim Choupo-Moting has become Bayern's leading man. He will look to reprise that role for country. And, to be honest, Cameroon, devoid of stars, will need their primary forward to fire.

URUGUAY vs SOUTH KOREA

YOUTH AND EXPERIENCE

Uruguay have the perfect blend of youth and experience. To add some excitement, they have one of the best midfields at this event, with Rodrigo Bentancur, Fede Valverde and Matias Vecino complimenting each other well.

SON'S STATUS

What shape is Son Heung-min in? A few weeks ago, he suffered a fractured eye socket. In Qatar, he was pictured playing with a mask. He's the attacking fulcrum of this side and if he plays, that will provide Korea with instant dopamine.

PORTUGAL vs GHANA

ALL EYES ON RONALDO

The last weeks has been a sad, avoidable turn of events in Cristiano Ronaldo's life. An unedifying interview has resulted in him leaving Man United. Question now, is, whether he can channel his frustration into helping his country?

WATCH OUT FOR KUDUS

Ajax's Mohammed Kudus is a star destined for big things. He can play in a number of positions and he likes nothing more than to drive at defences. He also has a very powerful shot and will be the force Ghana will depend on.

Magnificent seven for Spanish armada

AFP @Doha

SPAIN shredded Costa Rica 7-0 on Wednesday in a brutal destruction in their Group E opener which launched their bid to lift a second World Cup. Avoiding the fate of giants Argentina and group rivals Germany, who lost 2-1 to Japan earlier on, Luis Enrique's fancied side sparkled at Doha's Al Thumama Stadium, dominating possession and taking their chances mercilessly.

Ferran Torres netted twice and Marco Asensio, Dani Olmo, Gavi, Carlos Soler and Alvaro Morata were also on the scoresheet for the Euro 2020 semi-finalists in an emphatic romp.

In the past the 2010 World Cup winners have paid the price for profligacy but all three forwards Luis Enrique selected netted in the first half to pay back his trust in them. The coach placed Asensio at false nine, flanked by Olmo and Torres, starting with Morata and Ansu Fati on the bench. The coach opted to deploy Manchester City midfielder Rodri Hernandez in central defence, alongside club team-mate Aymeric Laporte, correctly anticipating his team would monopolise the ball. It took only 11 minutes for La Roja to open the scoring, with Gavi stabbing a pass forward for Olmo to receive in the area and the RB Leipzig winger taking one sublime touch to turn and another to stroke the ball gently past Keylor Navas.

Spain's Gavi, 18, became third-youngest to score at the big stage | AFP

Morocco hold Croatia

Another surprisingly strong show by an Arab country stifled the threat of Luka Modric and held 2018 finalist Croatia to a 0-0 draw. Morocco's resilient performance came after Saudi Arabia's victory over Lionel Messi's Argentina followed by Tunisia's scoreless draw against Denmark.

What next for Ronaldo?

Cristiano Ronaldo has left Manchester United with immediate effect. Where will he turn up next? The Portugal star, who plays his first WC game against Ghana on Wednesday, has put himself on the market with his explosive pre-World Cup interview that led to the termination of his contract on Tuesday. As a free agent, the 37-year-old has the chance to impress potential suitors and prove he can still perform on the highest level for his country in Qatar. His future may well depend on it after failing to secure a transfer to a Champions League club in summer.

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE

There are only 16 to choose from if Ronaldo harbors ambitions of playing in the competition when it resumes in February. Then it is a question of who would could afford him. A dream scenario would be to have one last fling with a truly elite club. But perhaps his best chance of that would be as a short-term fix until the end of the season.

PREMIER LEAGUE

Chelsea considered a move in the summer, but that never materialized. Ronaldo would not appear to fit in with the long-term planning of new manager Graham Potter, who is already having to deal with one ageing striker in Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang. Could Saudi-backed Newcastle be tempted to make a bid to sign him under its new ownership?

SAUDI ARABIA

The only serious interest in him in the summer came from Saudi Arabia. A move there would likely present the most lucrative option, it would be a marked step down in terms of his remaining sporting ambition. It would deny him to extend his record as the all-time leading scorer in CL.

MLS | Perhaps it is time to take his brand to the US and become the biggest star to play in MLS.

A RETURN HOME | To finish his career where it started at Sporting Lisbon would provide a romantic bookend for Ronaldo, while the Portuguese club could provide him with a route back to the Champions League next season. He would have to take a considerable pay cut if he were to take up this option.

Japan fans win hearts, again

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

OVER the past few days, a video from the 2022 World Cup has been going viral. No, it's not of a spectacular goal or skill, or indeed anything happening on a football pitch. It starts with a Qatari looking at the camera and exclaiming 'Someone tell me this is normal!'. Then, he beckons the viewer to the scene unfolding behind him, a group of Japanese fans collecting garbage from the seats. On Wednesday, Japan's football team had most of the world cheering for them as they beat Germany. But they were far from the first people from their country to win hearts in Doha. The exemplary behaviour of Japanese fans after the opening ceremony, repeated again on Wednesday, has everyone standing up and applauding.

Of course, this was far from the first time, the footballing world has witnessed this scene. Four years ago, when the event was in Russia, it was the Japanese fans who were helping the hosts clean up their stadiums. Their example had earned much praise then, with Senegal fans deciding that it was a good example to follow and cleaning up the stadiums after their matches. Japan's run in the tournament ended with a poignant scene. After the Samurai Blue lost to Belgium in the last sixteen, their fans had every right to sulk and vent out their disappointment. Instead, they stayed back and cleaned the stadium one last time.

Pickford plays down Kane injury fears

DOHA: Jordan Pickford revealed on Wednesday that Harry Kane is "fine", easing fears the England captain could miss Friday's clash with the United States with an ankle injury. Kane went for a scan on Wednesday after he hurt his right ankle early in the second half of England's 6-2 win over Iran in their Group B opener on Monday. "I think he's good, probably a bit sore but he's fine. He's out on the grass today," Pickford told reporters at England's training base in Doha. "Obviously Harry is an unbelievable player. He sets the example in the squad, he is leader, the captain. He is very unselfish and we all look up to him."

France defender Hernandez out of WC

DOHA: France defender Lucas Hernandez will miss the rest of the World Cup after injuring his knee in the defending champions' opening victory against Australia, the team said. The Bayern Munich defender tore an anterior cruciate ligament in the 4-1 win over the Socceroos on Tuesday, the French Football Federation said, and joins a growing injury list. Karim Benzema was ruled out of the tournament with a left thigh injury on Saturday. Paul Pogba, N'Golo Kante and Presnel Kimpembe — three key players from the team that won the World Cup in Russia in 2018 — were ruled out by injury before the team left for Qatar.

FOOD, FEAST AND FERVOUR

Over roast turkey and apple pie, the signature dishes for Thanksgiving, expats in the city will say grace

MONIKA MONALISA

IT'S Thanksgiving today and it's time to bring out your Thanksgiving trousers, as Joey from F.R.I.E.N.D.S calls them. An important festivity for Americans, it has now become big in India too, with expats here celebrating the day to show gratitude. For Americans, who have made Bengaluru their home, the celebrations are about catching up with friends and getting to know each other.

According to Hazel Kocherla, who is part of the Overseas Women's Club, most Americans in Bengaluru have travelled back home to be with their family since this occasion holds an important cultural significance. Members who are here, are catching up for lunch to celebrate the day. "What happens typically is that everyone holds a Thanksgiving dinner but we do a lunch," she says, adding, "So I approached a star hotel and they came up with a menu, which was not really a Thanksgiving one but was good enough, especially since the objective was to get together. It's a bit of nostalgia having spent time in the United States. I returned to India five years ago."

One of the most important parts of the Thanksgiving feast is the stuffed turkey and city-based Tucker McGaw has a funny anecdote from his childhood. "I grew up in Hyderabad as an expat in the '90s. Back then turkeys weren't really a thing, so we used to smuggle Butterball turkeys over from abroad in our check-in, throwing them into the freezer once we went back for Thanksgiving. Imagine the surprise of the security when they saw the skeleton of a huge bird in their scanner," laughs McGaw, adding that now they are able to source turkeys to their liking here in India. However, this year McGaw is giving Thanksgiving feast at his home a miss since he is travelling.

Although the Thanksgiving feast has evolved over time, McGaw likes to follow the traditional way. "Even though my family has been living abroad for a long time, we've been trying to follow the traditional American Thanksgiving somehow. Obviously the main attraction of the feast is the turkey with stuffing, cranberry sauce and mashed potatoes. And don't forget the corn!," explains McGaw, adding that it's the apple pie that he looks forward to the most.

Even though Thanksgiving is a very American concept, it is not limited to just them. Nowadays, the expat community is diverse and large, which is why caterers are coming up with an exclusive Thanksgiving menu. City-based home chef Susan George has curated one such menu. "A lot of my friends from abroad are enquiring about what to do during Thanksgiving in India. I always reply that there are a lot of options. Even though it's not a holiday here, many use it as an opportunity to catch up over dinners," says George.

She has come up with a menu which is called 'Everything but the Turkey'. "I love turkey but it is not so popular here. That gives me the chance to explore other things that are part of Thanksgiving like cranberries and pecan. I usually make apple pie but I prepare it with cranberries," she concludes.

BACK IN THE DAY

Apart from food, Thanksgiving holds a huge cultural significance. The feast is in honour of the first Thanksgiving in 1621 when the Plymouth colonists/English colonists(Pilgrim) and the Wampanoag Indians shared an autumn harvest feast. It is also to give thanks to the native Indians for giving colonists the knowledge on how to grow corn. As a result, it is a very important part.

Dane Simpson

Alex Ward

Australian comedians, Dane Simpson and Alex Ward, who are touring India as part of the Melbourne International Comedy Festival: Road Show, share their experiences of performing standup in India

Funny Down Under

TUNIR BISWAS

IN the documentary Comedian (2002), Jerry Seinfeld says something along the lines of "If you've been doing standup for four years, think of yourself as a four-year-old in comedy." On Tuesday night, two Australian comedians, of age seven and nine (as per Seinfeld), Dane Simpson and Alex Ward, took to stage at the Bangalore International Centre as part of the Melbourne International Comedy Festival: Road Show. The show was hosted by city's Kanan Gill.

Their first time in India, the two comics faced a culture shock when they first stepped foot in the country a week ago. "I come from a place called Wagga Wagga (city in Australia), and it is much quieter than Melbourne and Melbourne is much quieter than Bengaluru," laughs Simpson, who has his comedy special DIDGERIDOOZY, available in Australia on Paramount+.

Ward had her eye out for some of the quirks present in Indian society. "I spent a few minutes in the afternoon looking at a rooster on the roof and it's been quite entertaining. There's always something to look at here. I love that," quips Ward, mentioning that she and Simpson have been testing out material in various comedy clubs across the country before their shows. "First we went to Mumbai to get an idea of what works. Then, we started our road shows – Mumbai, Delhi, Chennai, Bengaluru and we will end it with Pune. These shows have gone so much better than so many shows I had done in Australia," says Melbourne-based comedian Ward.

Australia and India, outside of the cricket pitch and being colonised by the British, don't have much in common between them historically and culturally speaking. So the Aussies had to tweak their material a bit to catch the Indian drift. "It's something that the audience and I are in the process of figuring out. In the last couple of shows, I have come to realise that my confusion in trying to fit into Indian culture is a really silly and fun thing for the audience to watch. They understand what it's like to be an Indian and have enough empathy to comprehend how it must be like for an outsider to understand the culture. I am enjoying this process, it helps me grow as a comedian," shares Simpson.

As the standup scene in India is relatively new, Simpson feels it adds a breath of fresh air to the shows here. "I have found the shows to be super fun and the people are here to just have a good time. In Australia, since the audience has been with standup for a lot longer, sometimes they would show up and demand a specific style of comedy to watch. That can get a little difficult at times," says Simpson.

However, Ward feels despite the standup culture in India being in the developing stage, the internet has helped the audience get well-versed with comedy. "Most people I have come across here have watched a lot of standups online. Even though the Australian scene is older, you can still find first-time attendees in shows and not everyone there watches comedy online. But here, even in the club scene, there exist quite a few comedy clubs, especially in Mumbai where there are three, I'm told. Melbourne only has a few more but that is because that city has a larger and older comedy scene. But a city like Brisbane, for example, has only one comedy club. So, Mumbai's scene is technically bigger than Brisbane's," concludes Ward.

QUICK FIX

SWEET AND SPICY CHILLI OIL NOODLES

Contributed by Sahana Iyer, Chennai

INGREDIENTS

- Packet noodles (any brand): 1.5 blocks
- Peri-peri masala (or chilli powder): 2 tsp
- Soy sauce: 1.5 tsp ■ Jaggery powder/ sugar: 1-2 tsp
- Minced garlic: 4 large cloves ■ Oil: 5-6 tbsp
- Ketchup: 1 tbsp ■ Egg: 1 (optional)

METHOD

- Boil your packet noodles and keep aside.
- In a bowl, add peri peri masala, the noodles masala (from the packet), jaggery powder, soy sauce, garlic and ketchup.
- In a saucepan, add the oil and heat it until it starts smoking.
- Once smoking, pour this oil in your bowl of ingredients; it should sizzle.
- Mix, add your noodles to the masala and mix until all the strands are coated.
- Garnish with a fried egg or any topping of your choice.

FIT BIT

SALABHASANA VARIATION (LOCUST POSE VARIATION)

This is a dynamic pose which counters gravity and hence requires strength and energy to do. It helps in strengthening the back of the torso, pelvis, legs, and arms. It helps release tension in the pelvic area. Can be done by postnatal women.

STEPS

- Start in Advasana (Reverse Corpse Pose), keeping the body relaxed and preparing the mind for the flow.
- Align the hands behind, close to the body, with the palms facing the ceiling. Stay here for a couple of breaths with the forehead rested on the mat.
- Inhale and raise both legs from the waist.
- Keep your legs a little apart and knees straight at about 40 degrees from the floor.
- Make sure the lower body is raised from the pelvic area and balanced on the upper abdomen.
- Simultaneously lift the torso and the chin off the floor, keeping the head engaged.
- Extend your arms behind, close to the body. Exhale. Ensure feet are off the mat. Exhale.
- Stay in the pose as per your capacity.
- Breath is short due to chest constriction, but breath awareness helps the practitioner stay in the pose. Consciously avoid holding your breath.
- Release and relax to Makarasana (Crocodile Pose).

LIMITATIONS

Those with injuries in the ankles, knees, hips, pelvis, ribcage, or shoulders, or have undergone recent surgery, avoid this.

People with severe sciatica, peptic ulcers, heart issues, menstrual issues or prolapsed uterus, and pregnant women and senior citizens, avoid this.

BENEFITS

- Stretches the quadriceps, hamstrings, psoas, ankles, and shin muscles.
- Strengthens the knees and the lower back and keeps the spine flexible.
- Tones muscles, glutes and thighs.
- Helps burn belly fat and relieve stress.
- Strengthens the joints, core, lumbar spine and enhances muscular flexibility.
- Helps in breathing. Tones diaphragm.
- Aids the body to remain stable and strong. Stability helps to hold the posture longer, gaining better strength.
- Removes excess fat around the hips, buttocks, core, legs, and chest.
- An immediate positive energy booster.
- Removes the stiffness around the lower back, legs, and neck.

HEAR IT OUT

SREENIVASA MURTHY TM

THE inner ear's organs are basically organs of balance and are more commonly referred to as vestibular organs. Vestibular difficulties occur when one of the organs does not function as normally as the other does. Any injury, viral infection, or autoimmune condition, altered blood flow, medication (ototoxicity) could be the causes. Hence, anyone can experience these problems, and there is no particular reason as to who will be impacted by this condition. When a person is affected by the condition, the main issue that needs attention is the reason for its occurrence. As some uncertain factors are responsible for this health issue, it is quite understandable that it can affect people of any age range.

Symptoms:

Vestibular hypofunction can either be acute, sub-acute, or chronic, depending on the etiology. Most frequently, the presenting feature of the body will become unbalanced when the inner ear is affected. A person affected by this disease typically experiences giddiness or dizziness, blurred vision when moving their head, and an imbalance that makes them feel uneasy performing daily tasks. Along with that, in an acute instance, the patient may also feel severe giddiness, vomiting, and instability. The difficulty tends to get worse at night.

Treatment:

This is not a preventable problem, as the causes are varied and can affect anyone. The only cause which to a certain extent is in our control is management of blood flow by following a healthy lifestyle, avoiding alcohol, smoking, taking medication in case of hypercholesterolemia and such. They can be treated according to professional recommendations. In this case, patients are advised medication and rest to manage the initial symptoms based on the contributing causes and the severity of the symptoms. Usually, by following the recommended measures, problems could be resolved in a couple of weeks. In case the condition arises due to use of ototoxic drugs, controlling the symptoms and preventing side effects might require professional help and altering of ototoxic drug with another medication. Additionally, some people require more than just medication to recover; and are advised to participate in rehabilitative exercises in order to return to their usual lives.

The duration of treatment is determined by the cause of the problem, whether it affected one or both sides of the ear, and maintaining rehabilitative activities. Despite being a serious disease, 70 per cent of individuals often recover successfully. Sometimes a person may experience problems in the longrun if both sides are involved and have been present for a long time. People can usually manage this problem with timely expert advice and subsequent rehabilitative practices.

Gene that naturally protects people against Covid discovered

A team of Brazilian researchers has discovered that a gene can protect people, even those aged 90 and above, from the Covid-19 disease. Two research papers found that the frequency of variants of the gene 'MUC22' was twice as high in the mild Covid-19 group as in severe patients, and higher still in resilient super-agers. This gene belongs to the "mucin" family and is associated with the production of mucus, which lubricates and protects the airways. One research paper involved a group of resilient older people aged 90 or more, and the other analysed a case of severe Covid-19 in identical twins, only one of whom suffered from long-term symptoms of the disease. "If we can really prove that some genes promote resistance to SARS-CoV-2, the same may also be true for other viruses. More research can then be based on these findings to try to understand the mechanisms underlying this resilience and develop medications that enhance protection against viral infections," said Mayana Zatz, professor of Human and Medical Genetics at the University of Sao Paulo and lead author of the articles published in the journal Frontiers in Immunology, told Agencia FAPESP. – IANS

High 'good' cholesterol levels no guarantee for low heart disease risk

As people strive to maintain high levels of 'good' cholesterol in their diet, new research has revealed that high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol may not be effective in "uniformly predicting cardiovascular disease risk" for adults belonging to all races and ethnic backgrounds. A National Institutes of Health (NIH) supported paper, published in the Journal of the American College of Cardiology, found that while low levels of HDL cholesterol predicted an increased risk of heart attacks or related deaths for white adults - a long accepted association, but the same was not true for black adults. Additionally, higher HDL cholesterol levels were not associated with reduced cardiovascular disease risk for either group. "The goal was to understand this long-established link that labels HDL as the beneficial cholesterol, and if that's true for all ethnicities," said Nathalie Pamir, associate professor of medicine within the Knight Cardiovascular Institute at Oregon Health & Science University, Portland. – IANS

'ALL THAT MATTERS IS THE CONNECTION WITH THE AUDIENCE'

Ganesh talks about his upcoming film, Tribble Riding, and shares that the film is a family entertainer, and a laughter ride with a nice message

A SHARADHAA

GOING on triples might be wrong according to the law, but what made Ganesh still go on it in his upcoming film, Tribble Riding? "Without doubt, going triple riding is unlawful. There is a fear of being caught, for sure. In the context of the film, Tribble Riding is definitely a hurdle, but there is still joy in the ride. How will one escape from being caught? How do you manage to have three people in your life? This is the crux of Mahesh Gowda's film," explains Ganesh.

Tribble Riding will be Ganesh's second release of 2022 after Gaalipata 2, and the actor shares that the film will be a laughter ride with a nice message too. "The film can be watched by all kinds of audience, but it does have an element of mischief," he says.

Talking about his role as a doctor, Ganesh reveals that it has multiple traits. "He is a golf player and a sports car dealer. He teaches martial arts and swimming too. However, he is tested when three women come into his life in different situations, and whether he manages to escape is what makes this a fun ride," he says, adding, "Probably this is the first time I am acting in a film that has so many twists and turns, and it was one of the primary reason to accept the film."

Having known Mahesh Gowda since Mungaru Male, where the filmmaker worked as a co-director to Yogaraj Bhat, Ganesh says, "He is a director with a clear vision. He is quiet but definitely knows his job."

Apart from Ganesh, Tribble Riding also stars veteran actors like Rangayana Raghu, Sadhu Kokila, Kuri Pratap, and Shobaraj, among others. "The presence of these actors brings value to the film. Just like how the audience enjoys seeing them on screen, we too have a similar feeling while working with them," says Ganesh, who points out how Rangayana Raghu has been a regular collaborator. "Raghu is a fantastic actor, and a great human being. He does comedy, and also serious roles. He can pull off antagonist roles too. There is always a learning when you act with him," he says.

It has been two decades for Ganesh in Sandalwood. Reminiscing on this journey, Ganesh says, "When I look back, I feel its magic. I feel I have just climbed two steps. There are more characters to come by, and more technicians to collaborate with. There is a lot of work to do, and I think it is a fresh start."

Ganesh who stays updated with the films that are being made today understands that there is competition coming from many mediums. "Today, people are exposed to all kinds of films that are technically advanced too. However, what remains constant is the importance of the story and the narration. There are many blockbusters, which might not have a proper story. Then, there are films, which had the best stories but did not do well at the box office. All that matters is the connection with the audience," he says.

Ganesh, who caught attention across India during Mungaru Male days, says that he is glad to learn that Kannada cinema is reaching a significant place in Indian cinema, especially with the super success of Kantara. "Kantara wasn't planned as pan-Indian but something magical happened. Similarly, Mungaru Male too reached a wide variety of audiences. There are a few such moments in our career that will be forever memorable. Also, I believe that Pan-Indian success happens organically, and cannot be manufactured," he opines.

Ganesh, who made his directorial debut with Kool, shares that he still has the passion to direct a film. However, his present commitments don't give him the time to concentrate on it. "I love writing and directing, but not immediately. But for sure, I will helm at least two to three in my career."

His next is Preetham Gubbi's Banadariyalli, which is currently in the last phase of shooting. Ganesh's lineup of films includes a project with Chamak director Suni. "I will also be collaborating with Mahesh Gowda once again, and I am in talks with a couple of new directors."

Finally, when asked his preferred companions from the film industry to go on a Tribble Riding, Ganesh says, "I will actually take a bus because I will have the entire film industry to take on a drive. Everyone in the industry are my friends."

Sharib, Aahna to headline futuristic thriller Cancer

CE FEATURES

ACTORS Sharib Hashmi and Aahna Kumra will headline an upcoming futuristic thriller titled Cancer. The film will be directed by Faisal Hashmi, is known for the Gujarati-language films Vitamin She and the prize-winning Short Circuit. This will be Faisal's debut film in Hindi.

US-based entertainment production house Lonestar Films is producing Cancer. The film is in pre-production and will go on floors early next year. The hunt for the other two lead actors is underway.

Speaking about the film, Sharib Hashmi said, "The narration got me totally gobsmacked, I did not gauge what was coming and was on tenterhooks all through it. I have not seen anything like this on Indian screens and I genuinely believe that the script is our hero. I hope to do my very best to match up." Faisal Hashmi said, "I have stayed with the film for a very long time and now that it is about to take off, it almost feels surreal. I am extremely grateful to Pankaj, Devansh and Sharib for showing faith in the script and I hope the film brings a lot of fulfillment to everyone associated with the project."

'I would like to remain a student till the last take'

...says Pavan Wadeyar, who talks about his upcoming musical romantic drama Raymo starring Ishan and Ashika Ranganath

CE FEATURES

PAVAN Wadeyar, the director of hits like Googly, Rana Vikrama, and Natasaarvabhouma returns to direction after a hiatus with the romantic musical, Raymo. Starring Ishan and Ashika Ranganath, the film is slated to release this week. "2019 is when the film began, and the pandemic put a stop to our plans. But the final product of Raymo put a smile on our faces," says Pavan, adding, "While Ishan is the onscreen hero, Arjun Janya is definitely the offscreen hero of this romantic musical."

Calling himself as an ambitious person, Pavan shares that this attribute usually reflects in his characters too. "People celebrated the Sharath and Swathi pair of Googly, and Gagan and Sruthi in Natasaarvabhouma too received a lot of love. A lot of these characters are still remembered, and with Raymo, I want the characters of Revanth and Mohana to join this list. Both actors have equal importance in the film, and have done their best to elevate this love story," says Pavan.

Ishan plays a egoistic youth in Raymo, and Pavan shares that the character sketch of the protagonist was the starting point of the film. "Raymo has an attitude and is proud of his achievements, and doesn't like to see failure. How is it when a man sees too much success in life, and what happens when two egoistic people fall in love? How do they handle the emotional conflicts? This is the crux of the film," he says.

While Ashika's innocence made her the perfect fit for Mohana, Ishan's sharp features prompted Pavan to rope him in for Revanth. "Both are good listeners, and I thought it was a wonderful trait of these young actors. This is what helped them deliver the scenes," he says.

For the foreign portions, Pavan an team had a recce to over eight countries before finally zeroing in on South Africa. "I was looking for a beach side house with particular requirements, and I finally found it in Durban. The place and the atmosphere of the setting plays an important part in Raymo," he says.

Summing up the film's theme, Pavan says, "Raymo is a youthful take on love, and explains the good and bad side of those looking for overnight success."

The success of Pavan's career has elevated him to the next level as he gears up to make his Bollywood debut. "Cinema is evolving at a fast pace, and I wish to actually take a back seat, and observe the happenings for some time. I would like to remain a student till the end. The day you think of yourself as a veteran, you are done. So even after 9 films, I still love learning every aspect of cinema."

'The time for Indian animation scene is now'

Animator Chatrasal Singh and Technical Director Norman Joseph of Disney's upcoming animated film Strange World talk about the intricacies involved in building from scratch everything you see on screen

PRASHANTH VALLAVAN

THE first thing that strikes our mind when we mull over the differences between animation and live-action films is how entire worlds are created straight out of one's mind in the former. To be technically accurate, an animated film springs out of several minds and to understand that process, we talked to Chatrasal Singh (animator) and Norman Joseph (Technical Director) who worked on Disney's upcoming film Strange World.

When asked what defines good animation, Chatrasal Singh draws upon years of insights to confidently declare, "Story is king. With the kind of tools available in the industry today, almost every studio is able to create stunning visuals. The only thing that sets you apart is the story." If the story is the foundation, then the building is built on technology, and that is when someone like technical director Norman Joseph comes in. "Technical directors are responsible for making sure that the artists are able to accomplish their tasks using technology. If they come up with a new request and want to achieve something new, we analyse that request and see if it is technically feasible."

This feasibility is a major aspect of translating the mind's vision to the screen, and Chatrasal gives us a step-by-step insight into that process. "It begins with a story pitch, then the director works with an art department to sketch the entire film into storyboards. Then we model the characters, create layouts and animation before sending it to the lighting department after which the film moves to the rendering stage."

While there are many levels to the immensely collaborative effort, Chatrasal's animation team works specifically on the performance of the characters. "Sometimes, we act it out ourselves," he chuckles before continuing, "Some animators like to sketch emotions. Someone like me, who cannot sketch too well, would act in front of the camera and then animate our characters to emote the same way." Apart from the depth provided by the voice cast, a part of the animator's performance, as it seems, is also poured into the film. This revelation also means that from an animator's point of view, there are a lot of similarities between making an animated film and a live-action film. "Both films are hard to make. But in an animation film, you need to build it all from the scratch. Everything from a blade of grass to an entire world has to be created and rendered," shares Joseph.

Norman Joseph and Chatrasal Singh

Drawing inspiration from live performances is not something new for Disney and this tradition has managed to stay alive till Strange World. "We have videos of the actors performing while delivering the dialogues and we pick up facial nuances and try to incorporate it in the film," says Chatrasal, adding, "When an actor is lending their voice to a character in an animation film, they are not exactly performing the actual scene but their body language still informs our animation process."

Directed by Don Hall, Strange World boasts an impressive cast that includes Jake Gyllenhaal, Lucy Liu, Dennis Quaid, Jaboukie Young-White, Gabrielle Union and Karan Soni.

Talking about the uniqueness of Strange World, Joseph says, "The film has amazing environments in it. I loved watching the character Splat on screen, and the way it was made to emote even though it does not have conventional humanoid facial features." On the other hand, Chatrasal shares that his favourite characters from the film are Ethan and Searcher. "I found it easier to relate to Searcher and his son Ethan since I am a new father myself, and the film is all about the relationship between a father and son. If I want to empathise with the character, I dig into something personal that has happened in my life to try and connect with the character at that moment in the film."

The conversation then moved toward the animation scene in India and Norman Joseph's optimism for the potential for homegrown animation is apparent. "There are a wealth of stories in India and even now as we speak, there are so many Indian films that are getting mainstream attention from the international audience and it is a matter of time that success translates to our animation industry."

He then backed up his optimism with advice for Indians hoping to get into the animation industry, "The time for the Indian animation scene is now. There are plenty of competent animation studios in India. It's all about making connections, getting the right resources, and learning from the resources and on top of that, you need to keep doing what you love to do. Animation is a vast industry and figuring out what you would like to do in that industry would be the first question to figure out," he signs off.

Blurr starring Taapsee and Gulshan gets release date

CE FEATURES

TAAPSEE Pannu's debut production, Blurr, has a release date. Directed by Ajay Bahl, the psychological thriller film stars Taapsee and Gulshan Devaiah. It will premiere digitally exclusively on ZEE5 in Hindi on December 9.

Written by Ajay Bahl and Pawan Sony, Blurr centres on Gayatri, played by Taapsee, who is slowly losing her sight whilst trying to investigate the death of her twin sister. The film follows her struggles and how she overcomes her ordeal. Taapsee Pannu said, "Thrillers form an important part of my filmography and Blurr was one such script that kept me on edge with its screenplay and the situations the protagonist was thrown into throughout the film. That's why it was an immediate yes when Vishal reached out to me for this project. Having shot almost half the film blindfolded, I am taking back home a lot of memories and real bruises, which made me value clear vision even more. After Section 375, I was really looking forward to working with Ajay sir. I hope the OTT audience is ready for some thrills and chills with this one."
